Hi-Times Writers Move Into Daily Paper's Key Spots

Hi-Times Day in the Times office saw writers of the weekly Saturday feature pieces in regular reporters' and desk men's jobs today. Their stories and examples of their work appear in all editions of the paper. Many of them hope to follow journalism as a career. They were particularly enthusiastic workers. But all relished the change of scene and the adventure of daily news reporting. Here they pose for Times photographer Bill Halkett at the universal copy desk in the Times editorial rooms. ## Attlee Supports PM, Blasts U.S. Elements

U.S. COOL

Americans See Meeting As Waste of Time

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States shied away today from Prime Minister Winston Churchill's proposal that leading world powers hold a top-level cold war conference.

Diplomatic officials said the western powers would be wasting time and possibly courting trouble by entering the East-West negotiations without first getting real evidence that the Soviet Union wants peace. They said there has been no such evidence so far.

Congressional reaction to the Churchill proposal was mixed. Leading Republicans were enthusiastic or openly opposed to the idea.

Both the White House and state department withheld formal comment. Officials said the Eisenhower administration had made its position clear previously and there was no reason to restate it.

American officials conceded that there is a difference of opinion between the two governments, but they said it is not a "great split."

U.S. Senator Calls For Cold War Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator J. William Fulbright, Dem.-Ark., called today for U.S. leadership "with some good house sense"—to arrange cold war peace talks with the Russians.

Fulbright, a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he sees merit in the suggestion of Prime Minister Churchill that "highest level" leaders of the big powers should undertake to talk things out.

Europeans Praise British Leader's Speech; Pope in Appeal

LONDON (UP)—Winston Churchill won the support today of the British Labor Party, his chief opposition, in his call for a conference of world leaders on East-West issues.

But Clement R. Attlee, the labor party's leader, warned that President Eisenhower should come to any such meeting armed with full authority so he would not be repudiated later by Congress.

Opening the second day of a two-day full-dress House of Commons debate on foreign affairs, Attlee called for closer personal relations between British and Soviet leaders to help allay Soviet suspicions of the West.

Then Attlee launched into a blistering criticism of the American system of government. He said some elements in the United States do not want a settlement in Korea, some want an all-out war with Communist China.

A body of opinion in both the United States and Great Britain blames Soviet intrigue for all the world's troubles, Attlee said. "I hope that no one will suggest that I am in any way anti-

Reds Expected to Welcome Talks

European diplomats said today Churchill seized the initiative from both Moscow and Washington in his call for an early meeting of world leaders on the issues that divide west and east.

French leaders praised the speech. Government circles in West Germany and the Socialist opposition welcomed Churchill's declaration in Commons Monday that the Bonn government should not be sacrificed to obtain a settlement with Russia.

"It is our hope that Churchill's speech will have a positive echo through the world," Socialist chief Fritz Heine said in Bonn. The "Irish Independent," Eire's biggest morning newspaper in circulation, said editorially that Churchill had "seized the initiative" from the United States.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper in Moscow, and Moscow radio reported merely that Churchill had spoken on foreign policy but gave no details.

BRITONS READY FOR LAST DASH ON MT. EVEREST

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The British Mount Everest expedition was reported today to have established its fifth camp at the 23,000-foot level on the world's highest and last unconquered mountain. A report reaching here from the expedition's main camp said it was expected the final try to reach the summit of the 29,002-foot Himalayan peak would be made within 10 days.

Clark Plans New Offer in Peace Talks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark disclosed today he "shortly" will give the Communists a Washington-approved counter-proposal which he thinks might lead to an armistice in Korea.

The United Nations Far East supreme commander made his dramatic statement at Seoul on his way from Tokyo to the Allied truce camp at Munsan near here.

Clark told newsmen they could "rest assured" that "we have consulted with Washington on a matter of this importance."

The Communists had insisted their eight-point plan to break the truce deadlock on disposition of prisoners was acceptable without amendment.

Clark's announcement came as Red negotiators here argued that final disposition of anti-Red prisoners fighting repatriation has nothing to do with the armistice itself.

Naguib Says British Must Leave Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Premier Mohammed Naguib said today Egypt was determined to force the British out of the country.

Commenting on British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's foreign policy speech in the House of Commons Monday, Naguib said British "imperialism and aggression remain unchanged."

"I proclaim that Egypt considers the presence of any foreign troops in its territory under any name whatsoever is a continuation of the British aggression against Egypt which began in 1882 under the pretext of defense of the crown," Naguib said.

"We are at present determined to rid our country completely of British occupation and aggression."

DUKE OF EDINBURGH MAY SEE B.C. GAMES

LONDON (UP)—Buckingham Palace announced today that the Duke of Edinburgh, husband of Queen Elizabeth, hopes to be able to accept an invitation to attend the British Empire Games in Vancouver in July, 1954.

Rupert Plane Crash Kills 2

High-Speed Emergency Work by Fishermen Averts Major Disaster

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (BUP)—High-speed emergency work by west coast fishboats today was credited with averting a major disaster in the crash Monday of a Canso amphibian aircraft in this northern port.

Two lives were lost when the Canadian Pacific Airlines plane smashed into the choppy waters of the harbor, but the fishboats rescued the other 18 persons aboard the Canso, including Pilot W. T. Jennings and First Officer Everett Abby who had to be hospitalized.

Killed in the crash were Stewardess Clara C. Langen, 25, of Humboldt, Sask., and RCMP Constable Steven Kasper, of Allan, Sask.

Twin teams of investigators flew here today to determine the cause of the Canadian Pacific Airlines accident, while officials heaped praise on the skippers and crewmen of the fishboats which participated in rescue operations.

The boats picked up the 18 survivors as they floated in the chilly water or huddled on the half-submerged wings of the Canso, after it crashed while attempting to land.

REPORTED RECOVERING

J. L. Wood of Vancouver, B.C., a passenger aboard the plane, and one of those hospitalized following the mishap, was rescued from the stricken craft's tail-section by crewmen of the fishing vessel Dollina II, one of the first boats on the scene.

Wood, Jennings and Abby all were reported recovered from their injuries today.

More than a dozen fishboats joined in the rescue work. They made an 800-yard dash across the harbor to the side of the downed plane within five minutes, while hundreds of persons watched the operation from the harbor-edge.

The bodies of the two victims were washed ashore hours after the crash.

A CPA investigating team headed by Ron Keith flew in from Vancouver and joined Transport Department investigators. Both teams believed strong head winds capsize the plane as it hit the water for a routine landing.

The Canso appeared to submerge twice as it sliced through the water. One report said it struck a log before overturning. It was later refloated and towed to a berth at Seal Cove.

There were 17 passengers and a crew of three aboard the airliner when it left Sandspit in the Queen Charlotte Islands on the 45-minute flight to Prince Rupert.

It was the first fatal air crash in British Columbia since January when 22 men were killed in the crashes of two RCAF aircraft and a civilian plane on three successive days.

IWA Silent on Plans

PORTLAND (AP)—CIO woodworkers of the U.S. and Canada held a policy meeting here Monday, but union officials declined to say what action, if any, was planned on stalemated contract negotiations.

Management has offered to renew the present contract and leave local issues open for local negotiation.

Toll May Reach 150; $10 Million Damage

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

WACO, Tex.—The United States Weather Bureau warned today of the possibility of more Texas tornadoes in the wake of two man-killing twisters Monday which left at least 54—and possibly as many as 150—dead.

Rescue crews guided by muffled taps and groans of the injured worked feverishly today to free more victims from the debris left by a death-dealing tornado, one of the worst ever to hit Texas.

At least 42 were known dead from the twister which hit here, while eight died in a similar storm which struck San Angelo, Tex.—a total of 50. Some 200 persons were injured here and 79 at San Angelo, 190 miles west of Waco.

Damage here was estimated at $10,000,000.

Waco's civil defense director, Sam Meredith, predicted the death toll in this central Texas city might reach 100.

"They have just begun to dig," he said.

Hundreds of volunteers swarmed over the ruins of a six-story furniture store, a restaurant and a pool hall here that were demolished by Monday's deadly twister.

It had been feared that many died in the Joy Theatre, which collapsed. But manager E. C. Houck said the roof buckled before it collapsed, holding together long enough for all inside to escape.

There was no way to determine how many were dead and injured in the ruins of the six-story R. T. Dennis furniture store, or Chris' restaurant, or in Torrance's Recreation Club, a pool hall. At least 25 men

Gas Pours Out Into Wreckage

Gas from ruptured mains poured out over the wreckage at Waco, creating such a fire hazard that loudspeakers constantly warned rescue workers and onlookers not to light cigarettes.

Guests were routed out of the 11-story Roosevelt Hotel for fear the gas would collect in the building and explode. Meredith said the whole business area of Waco—56 square blocks—has been closed off.

Mayor Ralph Wolf of Waco "conservatively" estimated damage at $10,000,000. Two hundred automobiles, either destroyed or badly damaged, were counted in a 36-block area. Tons of bricks fell on one and squashed the top to within three feet of the ground.

Two hundred units of blood plasma were flown in from Scott Air force base, Ill., and from Brooke army hospital, at San Antonio, Tex. Gov. Allan Shivers offered "all resources of the state government" to the stricken cities.

Fourth Army headquarters sent cots and blankets and the Red Cross sent 500 more cots and 1,000 more blankets. Two field kitchens were set up to feed rescue workers and the homeless.

North and Central Texas had been warned against tornadoes by weather bureaus. But apparently few persons in either city expected them. The relation STRATFORD, Ont. (BUP)—The Swift Canadian Company announced today that it had signed an agreement with the United Packing-House Workers' Union (CIO) to end a 66-day strike at its Stratford plant.

TRIED TO EAT LIPSTICK

Partying Mother Leaves 3 Small Boys to Starve

TORONTO (BUP)—A 24-year-old Toronto mother was charged today with failing to provide the necessities of life for her three little boys, whom she left alone, hungry and dirty in a barren filthy flat for hours while she went to a party.

Detectives said it was "unbelievable" that the mother, Mrs. Megan Jones, would leave her children alone in such conditions.

One officer said, "It even made detectives ill."

The children, four-year-old Malcolm and his twin brothers, Phillip and David, both 28 months, were found last night lying in a stupor. Officers called by neighbors said they had been unattended for hours and were covered with lipstick they had tried to eat to ease the pangs of hunger.

Police said the father, Cyril Jones, 28, had visited the children Sunday and fed them half a can of soup. That apparently was the last food they received until police found them about 36 hours later.

Mrs. Florence Leary, Liberal candidate in Kaslo-Slocan, is the widow of former public works minister C. S. Leary.

Martin Jeered, Cheered On Socred Fiscal Plan

Trades Verbal Punches as Hecklers
Turn Saanich Meeting Into Hubbub

By GORDON FORBES, Times Political Reporter

Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin, alternately jabbing and ducking, Monday night verbally slugged it out with a handful of determined hecklers at a Social Credit-sponsored meeting at St. Martin's-in-the-Field Hall, Obed Avenue.

In what is becoming routine for Socred meetings in Greater Victoria, the fireworks came during the meeting's question period when Mr. Martin was reluctantly drawn into a discussion on his party's monetary theories.

At times the minister's shouting could hardly be heard above the jeers of his disbelievers and the cheers of his supporters. About 60 persons attended at Mr. Martin spoke in support of Saanich Socred candidate John Tisdalle.

Chief questioners of Mr. Martin, who is a pioneer of Social Credit and doesn't sit on the fence on his party's basic principles, were Frank Partridge, ex-Tory finance minister Herbert Anscomb's campaign manager last year, an aged man, a pretty blonde, a dark-haired lady in the front row, and a man who wanted the minister to give facts and figures about BCHIS's financial status.

When Mr. Martin realized his questioner was Mr. Partridge, he said:

"Oh, oh! If it isn't Anscomb's campaign manager last year. You're the one who is going to Social Credit meetings trying to stir up trouble . . . poor stuff . . . poor stuff . . . poor stuff . . ."

This resulted in boos and jeers being directed at Mr. Partridge.

Candidate Tisdalle jumped up and assured Mr. Partridge he could ask any questions because he was "among friends."

"I am not," replied Mr. Partridge emphatically.

A little later Mr. Martin, by this time in the thick of the hubbub, told Mr. Partridge:

"That was a lousy trick you pulled on Gunderson in Oak Bay the other night."

"It was not," countered Mr. Partridge. "I simply asked him a straightforward question about his monetary beliefs. Why didn't he answer me?"

"He did," insisted Mr. Martin. "He didn't. He avoided the question," said Mr. Partridge.

Interjected R. J. Pring, Saanich SC president: "Mr. Gunderson asked you to stay after the meeting and he'd discuss your question."

Mr. Martin jumped up again: "All we want to give B.C. is good honest, stable government. That's all we should be concerned about in this election. Monetary matters are out of provincial jurisdiction anyway."

"You boys won't meet the issue," said Mr. Partridge. "I'm afraid of your monetary system."

"I'm afraid of yours," came back Mr. Martin. "I had to ride freight cars under your system."

"Does your party advocate payment of dividends?" came a female voice.

"Federally, yes, but we can't pay it provincially," answered the minister.

He then went into an explanation of Socred monetary beliefs.

"Social Credit monetary proposals will simply distribute our wealth," he said. "You've got nothing to worry about. But I must repeat, this should not be an issue in this election."

Mr. Partridge asked if some of the credit for BCHIS's good present financial position was due to past government's policies.

"No, definitely no, and I'll tell that to the world," said Mr. Martin.

Somewhere during the somewhat unruly gathering, candidate Tisdalle said he believed in all Socred theories, including monetary reform.

A young lady asked Mr. Martin if he "stood for one thing provincially and another thing federally."

The minister replied there was only a certain distance the party could go provincially with certain of its theories.

Another woman asked if Alberta Socreds tried to restrict the press years ago.

Mr. Martin said the government in Alberta only wanted its own announcements printed beside statements of its opposition. The press, he said, hadn't printed the government side of matters.

PRESS CENSORSHIP
"Press censorship is farthest from our minds. Only our enemies preach that about us," he said.

"Is there any commission attached to floating a loan in New York like Mr. Johnson and Mr. Anscomb did," asked a young man.

Mr. Martin thought the figure on the last loan was $500,000.

Mr. Partridge then got into the debate again by telling Mr. Martin his views on the United Nations, world government and centralization of finance, given to a local service club, were similar to those of "Ron Gostick."

Mr. Martin said he only knew "of" Mr. Gostick and that the similarity in viewpoints was only "a delightful coincidence."

At the conclusion of the uproar, Mr. Martin moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Partridge for turning a dull meeting into a lively one.

In his speech, Mr. Martin said the language opposition parties are using against Socreds is "despicable" and shows they're frightened.

Mr. Martin said before he nominated W. A. C. Bennett for the leadership at the New Westminster convention he "put him through the mill" on Social Credit principles.

"I found he's a real Social Creditor, and I came to the conclusion he never was a Tory," he said.

The minister said his May 15 announcement will make BCHIS a "proper" insurance scheme.

The number of BCHIS employees, he said, will be reduced to 447 from the original 700 "without any unpleasantness or firings."

BLACK-CLOAKED DRACULA?

Invisible Teeth Biting Her Arm, Screams Girl

MANILA (Reuters)—An 18-year-old dance hall girl, her arms apparently covered with marks from invisible teeth, was carried from the local jail to hospital today screaming that black-cloaked Dracula was attacking her.

The chief police doctor said the girl was epileptic. He said she had bitten herself because the teeth marks corresponded with a cast taken from her mouth. His assistant disputed the diagnosis.

Cries of "hoax" followed her down the corridors of the jail where she had been held on a vagrancy charge while police doctors stood arguing over the mysterious bite marks.

The girl started screaming Monday night that she was being bitten by a "flying human being with big bulging eyes and wearing a black cape."

As the girl cried in fear and pain, more teeth marks appeared on the other arm, they said.

Socreds Using Douks Politically—Finlayson

TRAIL (BUP)—Deane Finlayson, provincial Progressive Conservative leader, charged the Social Credit party was using the Doukhobor situation today "for political ends."

"Social Credit is exaggerating the Doukhobor situation to attract attention and create the impression they are accomplishing great things," Finlayson told a rally here Monday night. Actually, he charged, the Social Credit government is accomplishing nothing.

"The suggestion to put a curfew on all the Doukhobors is about as feasible as trying to put a curfew on people coming and going to work," he said. He advocated a continuing commission to deal with the problem, saying "the solution is a long-range plan of re-location of the radical Sons of Freedom, who are responsible for most of the trouble. The remainder of the Doukhobors are law-abiding citizens who are being intimidated by the Sons of Freedom."

COMING!

A major new industry for B.C.

- .. more jobs
- .. more wages
- .. more money in circulation

WHY?

You've seen that sort of announcement in the papers often in the past few years.

Out of it come more security and opportunity for the people who live here . . . for young people growing up . . . for new citizens coming to make a living in B.C.

What lies back of every news item of that kind?

CONFIDENCE!

It's as simple as that. Someone had to make the decision to go ahead. Someone who trusted the people of British Columbia. Someone who backed his judgment with investors' savings.

Without such continued confidence, there could be no further progress in British Columbia. No more big new construction jobs of the kind today making B.C. hum. No new pipelines, refineries, pulp mills, mines, plywood plants, factories, power plants.

Worst enemy of confidence in this field is fear of Socialism . . . mistrust that people who believe the Government should own and control nearly everything and everyone's affairs will have a chance to experiment with their theories in B.C.

B.C. can go on forging ahead . . . or B.C. can stagnate. It's up to us who live and work in B.C. to decide.

Killing the Arts Centre?

IN SEPTEMBER OF 1951 THE city council voted 6 to 4 to accept the former Spencer home on Moss Street as an arts centre. Under the terms of the proposal the city would have obtained title to the premises, undertaken to maintain the grounds and to provide a certain sum for exterior building.

Before action was taken on that arrangement, another motion was presented to the council suggesting that the arts centre be made an inter-municipal project, with adjacent municipalities meeting a share of the expense. Saanich and Esquimalt at no time accepted that plan. Oak Bay indicated interest.

Then followed the erection of a number of legal obstacles to the scheme. The city and municipalities expressed doubt over their ability to accept title, some appearing reluctantly forced to decline participation.

From that time onward the arts centre question, from a civic-municipal point of view, has been fumbled backward and forward until yesterday's decision by the city finance committee refusing a request from the arts centre group for funds to maintain the grounds.

City solicitor Arthur Patton has commented that the arts centre is a Greater Victoria concern, but the city alone has seen fit to do anything, and that there the matter ends. To this Mayor Harrison has added the cryptic remark: "It's finished."

If that means what it seems to mean, that could be the end of any hopes of municipal assistance to the centre and the beginning of the end of the centre itself. Officials of the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria state their operations result in an annual deficit of approximately $3,000.

The argument has been raised that the city and municipalities are prevented by existing legislation from participating in the financing of the institution.

That is true—just as true as it is to say that if the municipalities and the city wanted to support the arts centre they could easily obtain the required authority. Council members are aware of the fact.

As the situation stands at present, the arts centre people face the barren prospect of trying to maintain a community cultural enterprise without the support they were led to believe would be given them. They went into the original arrangement in good faith on the basis of the vote passed by the city council in September 1951 and feel that their faith has been violated.

The suggestion that municipal assistance be given to the centre is in line with practice in other towns and cities of this size throughout Canada. Moreover, the arts centre interests point to the fact that the cultural and artistic opportunities sought by a substantial part of the community are as worthy of consideration as are those accorded athletic groups in this city.

Since the centre opened, it has received more than 20,000 visitors, including members, interested citizens and tourists. Art classes have been given to children at a fraction of their cost and hundreds had to be turned away because of inadequate accommodation. Tours, musical recitals, film showings and lectures have been features of the programs arranged in the premises.

This is part of a strong body of evidence to support the case for an arts centre here. It is proof of the pronounced appetite of Greater Victoria for this form of cultural expression. Is that to be ignored by the city and municipalities which make adequate provision for the special interests of other sections of the Greater Victoria public?

Perhaps it is. But if that is the case, the councils would be more honest, in their treatment of the public if they make frank statements to that effect. They should not hide their position behind legal technicalities which can be overcome if the councils want to overcome them.

R.S.V.P.

AS IS HIS HABIT, PRIME MINISTER Churchill has brought some realistic thinking to bear on the major issues of the day and sketched an outline of British policy in several theatres.

Although his thoughts on certain matters differ from those commonly ascribed to Washington, there is little doubt that what he said in his speech in the Commons yesterday has been talked over in one form or another with United States representatives.

Perhaps greatest divergence was seen in his comments on the Communists' Korean peace proposals. There is still disagreement between American and Red delegates on the point of prisoner repatriation, although the contentious issues in this connection are being narrowed. The major stumbling block at the moment appears to be the question of the fate of those prisoners of war who do not, after a period of waiting in neutral hands, decide to return to their communist-dominated homes. Churchill, while not going into detail, sees only the "method and procedure" of repatriation now separating the two sides; the principle has been agreed upon. To that extent he urges "patience and understanding" in considering the armistice proposal advanced by the Reds—an opinion that no doubt will be felt at Panmunjom.

At the same time the British leader appears to have given any hopes of unifying Korea "at this time," and is ready to settle for the present military status quo. That is a view accepted in many United States quarters, despite those who still favor the MacArthur policy of going all out to win, attacking China proper, and widening the war possibly to a full-scale conflict.

Another of the Prime Minister's suggestions has been mooted about Washington for some time in an indirect manner. Churchill comes out flatly for a "conference at the highest level of the leading powers," which is taken to mean the prime ministerial and presidential level.

He apparently feels that the new attitude which marks some Kremlin pronouncements is worth following up on a personal basis, and sees the best chances of success in a private, even secluded, talk. It would be the first face-to-face meeting that Malenkov has had with other world figures, and a chance for him to show at first hand, and devoid of propaganda considerations, how far he is prepared to go in achieving the world peace he has talked about so much lately.

Mr. Eisenhower has on several occasions said he would be willing to meet any Russian overture halfway, and he no doubt is prepared to go along with the British proposal. Such a meeting could change our whole era—or it could be submerged in the gilded phrases which all too often substitute for deeds in communist negotiations.

At any rate the invitations are out and the Kremlin must now devise a reply.

Private and Confidential

SINCE CONTROL OF THE PEOPLE'S thoughts is the greatest weapon of a dictator, control of news is a vital factor in any totalitarian regime. The Peron administration in Argentina is no exception to this rule.

For years Peron sniped at La Prensa, Argentina's greatest and most liberal newspaper. He did not rest until he had wrested it from its owners, destroyed its tradition, and made it his own. Other papers largely have knuckled under to such treatment or the threat of its application.

And now the dictator has gone a step farther and banned the use of American news services in his country. The world reports of the United Press and Associated Press cannot be distributed throughout Argentina as heretofore. Only one paper in the country still uses an American wire service.

How long the ban will remain in effect is hard to say. It was imposed by Peron on the excuse that Wall Street plotters were trying to overthrow his regime and threaten his life. Each time a bomb has exploded in his neighborhood he has sought to place the blame on the United States, as a convenient way in which to direct public attention away from his own shortcomings.

In the meantime millions of Argentine readers are denied the best information on world doings that would be theirs without the ban. It is true that British and French news agencies are still operating, but these cannot yet have the facilities set up to service customers formerly served by the American agencies.

More important, from Peron's standpoint, the public is not receiving from the United States the opinions of Peron's actions which are expressed there. The dictator has closed out one source of potent criticism, and no doubt will be loath to reopen it.

Columbus Slept Here

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

NOLI, Italy—From the proprietor of the Albergo Nazionale in this ancient Mediterranean town I have just received my first lesson in Italian politics. It is that politics have no useful purpose in human affairs and should be avoided like the plague.

The inn keeper—a man who wore the face of a Caesar, much battered by life in many places, including a spell as a waiter in the Hotel Knickerbocker, New York—showed his distaste of politics with an elegant downward gesture of the hand.

Politics, said he, are no use to the working man. Again the downward gesture of dismissal and disgust. America is better for the working man for there he can work and earn and grow rich. Here it is all different and all the politicians are the same. Yes, but the proprietor of the Albergo Nazionale cannot tear himself away from the Mediterranean.

He looked through the row of palm trees across the street and the curving beach to the sky-blue mirror of the sea. That, he said, was good. So was the little town of 5,000 people. So were the people themselves. Life was all good here, except for the politicians. And the solution of Italy's problems was to get rid of the politicians altogether.

He spoke with some experience, for he had fought in two of Italy's wars, which he blamed on politics. And rubbing his thumb and forefinger together to indicate the disagreeable fact of money, he added that war was not cheap.

For a town like Noli the cost of mere life comes high. It is supported by a few fishermen, whose green boats were drawn up on the beach, and eked out by tiny, terraced gardens of grapes, peas, beans and oranges on the hillside, below the ruined castle. No one seemed to be hungry, everyone laughed most of the time but poverty crawled through the dark, six-foot streets and when the fishermen returned from the sea at dawn they brought only a few hundred pounds of fish.

NOLI is famous for only one event, which is recorded on a marble plaque, "Cristoforo Colombo" sailed into this port with his "navy" on the way to Spain and the New World, after the princes of Italy had rejected his trans-Atlantic proposition as a fool's dream. That was a bad day for Italy and the making of the Spanish empire. After Columbus sailed away nothing of importance happened in Noli and it lives today much as it has always lived, except for the perpetual roar of the big freight trucks bound towards the French frontier.

After the brassy glitter of the French Riviera, the white horror of Nice, the comic opera nation of Monaco perched on its sheer hill and guarded by a special police force in garish uniform of blue and red, the casino of Monte Carlo and the whole phony spectacle of France's playground, it was a relief unspeakable to cross the Italian border and discover Noli.

While the frontier is an imaginary line it defines two separate civilizations within a hundred yards. Italy is obviously poorer than France, the towns a little shabby and the road a little rougher. Children with arms full of crimson carnations for sale at the roadside seem to symbolize in a moment the difference between the two neighboring countries. Italy is all flowers, smiles and song.

Italians are so in love with music, indeed, that at several points along the road we found men playing bagpipes skilfully built of inner tubes from automobile tires. They didn't sound like the pipes of Scotland but they played Italian tunes well enough.

THE Italians seem to dote on foreigners, especially on the English, who for several centuries have returned this feeling. It was on this coast that some of the English poets wrote their best poetry. When Browning wished for "a castle, precipice unfurled in a gash in the blue-ridged Apennines" he might have been looking at the azure range behind Noli. A few miles away, across the gleaming Gulf of Genoa, Shelley was drowned and cremated on the beach, under Byron's supervision.

When the aged lady who operates the leading hotel took us for Britons by the number on our car she gave us her best rooms, wine and dinner. As she did not speak English, like the other inn keeper, conversation was difficult. We conducted it by pointing to essential words in a pocket dictionary of Italian phrases but this didn't get us far. It assured, however, all the hospitality she could offer and a smile on her wrinkled old face which seemed to tell the whole splendid, tragic and comic story of her people.

ON Saturday night the entire population lolled on the esplanade among the palm trees and flowers or leaned from upstairs windows, watching the ceaseless procession of trucks (so alien to this unchanging little town) or gazing out to sea.

On a bench by himself sat a fisherman, too old to fish. He wore the traditional headgear of his kind, now out of fashion—dark blue Tam-o-Shanter like that of the Scots, but with a fluffy pom-pom on its top. He, too, was gazing out to sea, where he would go no more and, oblivious of the crowd, sang softly to himself. Anchored to the land, he still belonged, like all the people of this coast, to the Mediterranean.

Neither he nor anyone else seemed to pay any attention to the placards pasted on the walls by the Italian government, urging support of the North Atlantic Treaty and peace, the placards of the communists urging the world revolution or the daubed hammers and sickles hard by the memorial to Cristoforo Colombo. Quite clearly the town was not much interested in politics. Its sentiments, I judged, were expressed by the proprietor of the Albergo Nazionale and the downward gesture of his hand.

Speaking From the Heart

We are at the present time hearing a whole lot of rubbish about Hospital Insurance plans from our political aspirants, and even Mr. Winch in one of his idealistic speeches had the nerve to say he could get a better room for six dollars per day at any hotel than in any hospital in B.C. He is not the only one who has made that remark. It is probably true—but that is all he would get.

He wouldn't have three meals in bed; he wouldn't be bathed in bed; he wouldn't have 24 hours' attention daily; the frequent linen changes, back rubs, etc.

Instead of having genuine interest and skilled care, he would have someone with a hand out for a tip for everything that was done for him. A study has shown that if the services in a hospital room were given in a hotel room the cost would be more than $60 a day.

At the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria, Dr. Watson reflects the exuberance and solicitous interest extended throughout the hospital by the whole staff.

My introduction this last time was through my own doctor, through whom I met Dr. Homer, and in less than one hour I was on the operating table.

Happily after Dr. Homer's performance I was safely at home again in 17 days.

Star names, such as generals, majors, captains, etc., are rudely shaken off at the door before entering the hospital, and each and every patient receives the same treatment; even to private duty nurses for the seriously ill. No hospital can be fun, but for routine ailments and check-ups, hospitals operated as skilfully as the Veterans' Hospital do much in sending you back with all the zip and pep you need for the pace of modern living.

Diamonds may be a girl's best friend, but humanity's best friend in time of physical and mental setback is your local hospital. Help it while you can, as it will be there when you need it.

If I am overboard on the Veterans' Hospital it is because my experience there made me so. As far as I am concerned, there is no more pleasurable place to be sick.

Dr. Watson can be immensely proud of a job well done at the Veterans' Hospital.

It is good to feel there are angels right here on earth—and I mean the whole staff of the hospital—the best hospital in Canada—the Veterans' Hospital, Victoria, B.C.

Improvement Needed

The Financial Post

If the U.S. President is still reluctant to accept the trade views of outsiders, it's to be hoped he will listen to the warnings which have been sounded by distinguished business leaders and economists from his own country.

In a bluntly worded report the U.S. Council of the International Chamber of Commerce has asked for a "Trade Expansion Act of 1953." It wants Washington to simplify customs procedures, reduce tariffs across the board by at least 20 per cent as a beginning, repeal Buy-American clauses and end import quotas.

These are the things other trading nations have been wanting the U.S. to do for years. These are the things the U.S. must do or the free world, including the U.S. itself, will go into a depression.

As Our Readers See It

PLAYS THE THING

I was surprised after all the controversy that has been going on for months re the play called "Tobacco Road," to see it is going to open here.

What's the use of having court proceedings, etc., about such plays, then bringing them over here. Haven't we enough troubles of our own without adding to them?

Do you think it wise to subject our teen-agers to such a play when it has been condemned as filthy? I have read the book and as such I thought it could well have been put in the fire. It may be a true picture of life in a certain part of America but why do we have to have it forced on us up here.

Victoria has always been called the Dead City by our neighbors across the water. What will they think of good old Victoria when they read that plays condemned in that fair city and publicized so much should be allowed to be played here?

It's true Victoria has awakened up this last few years but why spoil it? Haven't we enough dirt and crime sloughed off on us without this? I guess there are a number of folk who will agree with me. I hope so, anyway.

RUNNING AND HUNTING

Political campaigns distort facts, color our imagination and blind our perception.

Social Credit is discredited because Major Douglas tried to break the monopoly of people's credit by world financiers. The issue is not provincial but the people's credit is Dominion grants in lieu of tax rights, part payment of Social Security are very much a vital issue in B.C.

Social Credit is said to have no philosophy. Efficiency with economy, freedom from fear of political minorities and feuds by Radical Sons of Freedom, freedom from want (implied in individual increase in purchasing power), freedom from debt and free enterprise, are surely elements of philosophy.

Let the electorate vote for a clear and clean-cut majority in favor of our new party with new blood and new ideas and new ideas. They have much to their credit and considerable following. Let us not fall by division but stand by addition. Beware of those who run with the hounds and hunt with the fox.

Old parties like old dogs cannot be taught new tricks. Experience teaches.

Super-Original Art

Edmonton Journal

EVER the master of the right word, Sir Winston Churchill has neatly tagged the kind of "modern art" which baffles and sometimes angers "ordinary" people.

Speaking at the Royal Academy in London, he described these manifestations as "super-original forms of art."

A beautiful illustration of his phrase is found in the exhibition of the works of Pablo Picasso, dean of surrealist artists, which opened this week in Rome.

The main attraction is a double picture called "War and Peace." In "War," according to press descriptions, an antique figure is shown driving a chariot full of insects against "a long-necked individual holding in one hand a shield with a white dove insignia and in the other what may be anything from a paint brush to a lamp post."

"Peace" features a number of nudes, a large eye with fern fronds for lashes, a fish-bowl with birds swimming in it, and a cage with fish flying around in it.

Peace, one gathers, has its mysteries no less renowned than war. What, if anything, all this means no one but Picasso seems to know, and he isn't saying. But no one can deny that it's "super-original."

WANTS WARTIME INFLATION IN PEACETIME

Politicians, newspapermen and others profess amazement at the sudden upsurge of Social Credit. They give this or that possible reason, but carefully avoid the true reason.

Our people are afraid. Not of peace, which all good people desire, but of a peacetime economy under the administration of the old Tories and Grit parties. Mr. Laing attempts to scare us with dire threats, about our savings under Social "funny money" policy. He hopes, no doubt, that we have forgotten what happened to our savings in the thirties, when in a rich country, we cried poverty in the midst of the greatest prosperity the world had seen up to that day.

Prosperity, that is, in an abundance of goods produced (they called it over-production), natural resources and a trained and willing worker population.

Does Mr. Laing pretend he does not know the sound money theories of Social Credit? Social Credit would create money to maintain a full peacetime economy in exactly the way the King government did for war. "Not a five-cent piece" in 1932 and billions in 1939-1945.

That money was charged against our Canadian economic and industrial production potential. This by Graham Towers' own admission could have been done in the thirties to produce highways and other necessary works.

By their failure the old parties have forfeited their right to our endorsement. Social Credit can expand our economy in peace and plenty. The old gangs have demonstrated that they cannot. They administered peace and plenty with tear-gas and clubs.

We fear a repetition. We will not turn back the clock. Mr. Laing and others take notice!

WHAT RETURN?

Dr. Goodwin, PC candidate for Esquimalt, said a mouthful when he stated that "wives are the most under-privileged classes in the world today."

Until we get justice and common sense in the home, we cannot get fair play in the realm of politics.

In our political mess at the moment it would be interesting to know what return women get for working for the numerous parties now before the electors. The day of bouquets and soft words for service is over. If the men have only a dollar consciousness, the woman worker should get wise to herself!

MARKED for READING
SELF DISTINCTION

We say that any two things however unlike are in something like. This is the one exception: when I compare my self, my being-myself, with anything else whatever, all things unlike, all in the same degree, rebuff me with blank unlikeliness; so that my knowledge of it, which is so intense, is from itself alone, they in no way help me to understand it. And even those things with which I in some sort identify myself, as my country or family, and those things which I own and call mine, as my clothes and so on, all presuppose the stricter sense of self and me and mine and are from that derivative.

—From "Selections from the Note-Books of Gerard Manley Hopkins."

Coffins for the Careless

CRIM pictures continue to adorn the front pages of our newspapers as reminders of the mounting toll imposed upon human life and property by the careless, speeding driver. And it is noticeable that the great majority of the serious accidents in Greater Victoria occur during the early hours of the morning, when the roads are practically deserted—from which you can draw your own conclusions.

Written and spoken exhortations from the authorities seem to have little effect, so perhaps Victoria might do well to study some of the methods used in other communities to bring home to motorists the grim lesson behind British Columbia statistics—which is that in nine cases out of 10 car accidents are the results of taking needless chances.

Last week the city of Montreal staged a macabre parade in connection with its traffic safety campaign. That parade featured a fire department ladder with 20-foot streamers on its sides and bearing a skeleton. It was followed by six tow trucks each drawing a wrecked car, and a convertible exhibiting the "Scythe of Death."

Bringing up the rear of the procession was a morgue wagon, labelled that it was ready to receive the victims of the Grim Reaper, and reminding the onlookers of the campaign slogan: "Driver . . . it could be your funeral!"

THAT WAITING CASKET

Washington, D.C., is another city that was shocked into a demonstration against the death toll exacted by fools behind the wheel. The highlight of a parade in the U.S. capital was a float symbolizing the fate of the reckless driver and his victim.

Beside an elaborate open casket, bearing an enormous wreath of flowers on one end, was seated a mannequin in mourning clothes, representing the "widow." And a huge placard noted that the casket was "Reserved for Washington's next traffic victim." The float was preceded by a parade of towed wrecks and an ambulance.

And I recall seeing some years ago while in Connecticut a grisly warning to drivers in the shape of a wrecked car mounted at a dangerous corner and surmounted by a sign bearing a skull, with the words: "This Might Happen to You! He Took This Corner Too Fast!"

CAUSE AND CURE

Startling signs are becoming a common feature along the widely-travelled roads of the United States. One depicts cars on a three-lane highway in a collision caused by the driver who tried to pass without reckoning for on-coming traffic. It also bears the lines: "He took a chance to save a minute. He made his bed and now he's in it."

Another picture a huge hog driving a car, flanked by the words, in bold letters, "Road Hog: Never Be Called One." While another exhorts the motorist: "Stay Alive! Obey Traffic Signals."

A State Trooper in Georgia, who patrols a main highway, pessimistically observed: "The roads are laid out for a maximum of 60 miles an hour, and it's those who don't believe it who make the undertakers along this highway so prosperous."

Even in the comparatively new country of Israel reckless drivers have become such a problem that the Knesset (Parliament) has authorized the authorities to stiffen the penalties. For the first offense, a reckless driver may get a maximum of two years in jail and a fine of $1,680; for the second offence five years and permanent revocation of his driving license.

Drastic measures, perhaps, but the universal increase in serious accidents caused by careless and reckless drivers suggests that grisly reminders and drastic measures may be necessary.

Over the Mountains and On

THE French High Command in Indo-China might have avoided their present trouble if they had only had the advice of Mr. Ferguson. The French generals relied on mountains to keep the Indo-Chinese Communists out of the mountain kingdom of Laos; so the Communists have been all over Laos and on the Siamese border as well. The great point of Mr. Ferguson was that he knew all about mountains, and understood how unreliable they are.

But perhaps it will be better to begin the story of Mr. Ferguson at the beginning, which was on a railroad platform in Toun-goo, Burma, in the early hours of an autumn morning of 1941.

In those months before Pearl Harbor, Toun-goo was the training base of Gen. C. L. Chennault's Flying Tigers. The General had been summoned to hold military conversations with the British War Cabinet's special representative in the Far East, the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, Mr. Duff Cooper. And on that particular morning, Gen. Chennault and one of those reporters boarded the Burmese government's imperial state train—narrow gauge but painted cream color and crimson—for this grave purpose. There was something a bit nightmarish about the events of the first hours of the day and the nightmare might have gone on forever, if it had not been for Mr. Ferguson.

Mr. Ferguson was the High Commissioner of the Shan States, and as such the virtual dictator of an enormous centre of mountainous northwest Burma.

He looked more like a hangover from a primitive comic strip than a dictator, for he was a little, silver-haired, pink-faced, portly, belted, skin-shanked, fox-faced, pot-bellied, fantastically got up in jungle shorts, a white shirt with a semi-stiff collar and a flowing pink Buster Brown tie.

After the breakfast, when the journey to Rangoon began to seem absolutely interminable, he made his first remark in a high, didactic falsetto.

"Alcohol before sundown," he squeaked with great earnestness, "has always been the curse of the Caucasian races in the Orient. For my part, however, I have scientifically ascertained that a gimlet does not come under the heading of alcohol."

Everyone present responded with relief to this bit of Ferguson lore. Gimlets (which consist of straight gin with a lump of ice and an emollient drop of lime syrup) were brought by the state train's turbaned servants; and the servants and the gimlets continued to reappear at fairly regular intervals thereafter.

The party grew progressively chummier, until the train was nearing Rangoon. At length Mr. Ferguson pointed a chubby finger at Duff Cooper's starched, red-tipped military aide, and asked the question everyone had been wondering about.

"Just how on earth do you soldiers propose to keep the Japs out of Burma?"

"Mountains," said the Brigadier huffily; "the Japanese can never cross such mountains in real force."

"Mountains!"—scorn sent Mr. Ferguson's voice into its highest, most batlike ranges—"mountains indeed! Don't talk to me about mountains! I cross those mountains every week of my life, and if I can cross those mountains the Japanese certainly can. They'll cut through Burma like a knife through butter."

Poor Mr. Ferguson! The Brigadier snubbed him roundly, and he lived only long enough to learn he was bang right, and then got killed in a plane crash at Kunning that winter. Yet the Ferguson doctrine on mountains has just been proven once more in the crucial Laos fighting. Even if the Laos fighting ends well, the Ferguson doctrine will always retain a certain vivid interest, as long as nothing but mountains separate Communist China's 3,500,000 men under arms from the rich and tempting military vacuum that is most of Southeast Asia.

Raft Back to Night Clubs

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—George Raft at 57 is dusting off his dancing shoes for a return to the night club floors. He claims he's "dead" in the movies.

"As far as pictures are concerned, I'm dead," he said. "Nobody has been breaking their necks trying to hire me. There's no money in pictures any more, so I'm going back to being a dancer."

The long-time portrayer of coin-flipping gangsters will open his act at the Flamingo in Las Vegas in August. Then he'll tour Latin-America, where, he said, he has a vast following, "because they think I'm a Latin." He is half-Italian.

"After that, I want to play the Palladium in London and other places in Europe," he remarked. "I'm still a big star over there. They remember the stars they saw before the war, whereas the new actors aren't well known. A guy like Kirk Douglas is big here, but few people know him in Europe."

Raft is training for the dance tour like a prizefighter. At present he is dieting and working out in a gym. In a couple of weeks, he'll begin dancing and choosing his partners.

"It's kinda rugged getting back in shape at my age," he said. "Raft's age has always been listed in the record books as a question mark, and I asked him about it."

"I was born in 1895," he answered; "and now I don't care who knows it." Raft looks much younger than his 57 years. His hair has receded and is flecked with grey he refused to dye, but his skin is that of a 20-year-old.

What happened to his picture career? "Lots of things," he said. "For one thing, I think I made a mistake when I stopped appearing with big names. My biggest successes were with people like Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard, Marlene Dietrich and so forth. Maybe they made me look good; maybe I was better with them. When I started appearing with them unknowns like Ava Gardner or Janet Blair, they rose but I slipped."

OTTAWA—The state department has closed the books on the sale of seats to Canadians along London's Coronation route. A total of 9,300 seats had been allocated to this country, including 500 in stands built in front of Canada House.

LONDON—The planning for the Coronation festivities is about done. They've even worked out all details for the lamp-pole grease and the hot milk.

The grease will be applied to all the lamp posts along the procession route. No shinning up poles on Coronation day. It isn't considered dignified.

As for the hot milk, that's a must for the 40,000 school children invited to watch the big doings. They'll also be given flags to wave, and sandwiches to eat.

Those 40,000 are among the lucky ones who'll have choice seats as the young Queen and her entourage move from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey. Altogether, seating accommodations are being built for 100,000.

Since travel agents and shipping lines estimate 40,000 Americans will be in England for the Coronation, less than 10 per cent will actually see any part of the ceremony.

Londoners who live along the route have been licking their financial chops, figuring on making quite a profit out of selling window space. So far, they've been disappointed. Most Britons seem to prefer watching on TV. Perhaps, when the foreign influx arrives, the windows will command the expected $45 to $90 price. But, at the moment, no.

Actually, there is much logic to the lately-felt preference for TV over on-the-spot viewing of the procession. Stay-at-homes will miss the excitement of the crowd, of course, and the gay colors of the historical costumes. But against this is the fact that seats have to be occupied several hours before the ceremony begins, and the actual parade will last at the most 20 minutes each way, if that.

300 Charges Face 30 Wheat Farmers

LEASK, Sask. (CP)—At least 30 farmers, charged with contravening Canadian wheat board regulations for wheat sales and accused of selling by various methods in excess of the legal quota, appeared in court here Monday to face an estimated 300 charges.

Also facing charges in each instance are the elevator men who purchased the wheat.

The cases follow investigations by Earl Middleton, board inspector. The cases were turned over to the RCMP following the inquiry. To date, district farmers have not received payment of the 20-cent-a-bushel supplemental payment for their wheat. The payment would have brought about $80,000. Delivery quota here for the 1952 harvested crop was eight bushels an acre.

In several instances deliveries by individual farmers here are alleged to have run as high as 2,000 bushels in excess of their quotas. Some other farmers have even yet not been able to deliver grain.

Canada Closes Sale of Seats Along Route

And, on TV, the whole ancient rites will be visible, not just a few hasty glimpses of gilded carriages and scarlet tunics. Viewers will see the Queen for more than two solid hours.

Every hotel in London is sold out for one week before and after the Coronation. Those who have reservations in the swank hotels will get the standard Coronation fare—champagne with breakfast.

Travel agencies are booking tourists into places as far distant as Brighton and Eastbourne, more than 50 miles from the centre of London.

Also being used are luxury liners, moored along the Thames; some dual estates complete with butler and $600 a week charges; 7,000 London homes, where "bed and breakfast" is available for from $1.20 to $9 a night; and, for those who like their Coronations quiet, the British Travel and Holidays Association has also listed a convent and two monasteries as offering accommodations.

The grandstand ordeal for street spectators will be mild compared to the strain TV will mean for Elizabeth.

It is reported she is somewhat apprehensive of the almost superhuman performance demanded of her in the two hours she will be under the glare of floodlights, but she is determined to see it through.

She plans to rehearse in Westminster Abbey, first without and then with ceremonial robes and crown, and realizes she cannot afford the slightest error or sign of fatigue. Her only moment of respite will be when she takes Holy Communion and kneels in silent prayer.

The Royal Family fears the slightest slip-up, for history proves there's been at least one at every Coronation. The Archbishop of Canterbury almost dropped the heavy crown as he was about to place it on the head of Elizabeth's father, George VI. And at her own Coronation, Queen Victoria had to rise and assist an ancient lord who tripped on the steps to the throne.

Massey Calls for Understanding In Treatment of New Immigrants

Governor-General Vincent Massey gave an answer Monday night to those who criticize Canada's open-door policy.

The small, precise man who, at 66, is the first native-born Canadian to hold his high office, stated his views on immigration at a joint meeting of Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs at Victoria High School.

The desire of so many people in the old world to come to Canada and become Canadians, he said, provides an immense opportunity.

"We are privileged to welcome again a crowd of newcomers from the older parts of the world," he said. "These newest Canadians are as varied in race as any of their predecessors. They are also even more diverse in their intellectual and social background."

"They are, some of them, in the sciences, letters and the arts, persons not easily drawn away from the greatest centres of civilization; persons now rooted up and flung abroad by the political revolutions of our times."

"These present to us a new and very important opportunity."

CHALLENGE PROVIDED

The Governor-General conceded that with opportunity came challenge, but insisted Canada had so much to gain that this should be no barrier.

"Many of our newcomers, bringing first-hand experience of the fierce conflicts which have tried us all, inevitably present psychological problems which we can hardly understand," he pointed out.

"It may well be," he went on, "that we Canadians—who are sometimes accused of lack of warmth—must show an ever warmer sympathy if we are to help these new citizens to make their full contribution to our common life."

But this, he insisted, should not be difficult.

"Canadian, I like to think, now means not only a person of any one of a large variety of ancestries and traditions; it means, also, a person who has learned to deal with his neighbors in terms of justice, moderation and tolerance."

UNDERSTANDING NEEDED

"He may not even pretend to agree with them all, but he accepts the obligation to live with them peaceably, tolerantly and, with kindness and understanding."

The Governor-General paid special tribute to Canadian clubs for "rekindling the flame of national feeling and pride when it was dangerously low."

Canadianism, he felt, was the most important subject for Canadians today. He reported from first-hand experience in all 10 provinces an existence of a strong feeling of unity, but thought schools could perform a service in making this unity even stronger.

LESSONS IN HISTORY

"I think we often fail to pay enough attention to history," he said.

"I remember when I was at school, Canadian history never seemed to provide us with the most interesting period in the week. In fact, let me be quite frank, it was extraordinarily dull. That, I believe, was due to the way it was written and the way it was taught."

The history of Canada was actually stimulating," he said, and if told with imagination, should catch the interest of children in search of adventure.

"I would like to make a simple plea," he summarized, "for more Canadian history in our curricula, so that the boy or girl who emerges from school will have both a knowledge of and a feeling for the stirring achievement which have served to create the country we live in."

Nils O. Hansen* Carries Phillips' Tablets Wherever He Goes

"THEY RELIEVE UPSET STOMACH IN JUST A MATTER OF MINUTES!"

*Nils O. Hansen of Vancouver says "I carry Phillips' Tablets with me at all times. In just a matter of minutes, they relieve upset stomach and other signs of acid indigestion." The reason for this is that Phillips' Tablets are made from one of the fastest, most effective stomach acid neutralizers ever discovered. And they have a delightful peppermint flavor which makes them as pleasant to take as candy mints. Carry them with you so you'll be prepared whenever acid indigestion causes distress. 30 tablets—25c.

Warren May Intervene In Race Track Dispute

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (BUP)—Race fans awaited the possibility today of action by Gov. Earl Warren or the state attorney-general's office in the battle over purse distribution which prevented Hollywood Park race track from opening.

Hollywood was scheduled to open its 50-day meeting today but only 38 horses were entered. The track's board of directors then announced that the track would not open because of the boycott of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

The HBPA, representing about 90 per cent of owners and trainers in the state, voted unanimously to boycott the meeting after the track refused its demands for a 40 per cent share of the mutual take.

In Los Angeles, the state attorney-general's office said it might take action against horsemen for indicating their horses would run by stabling them at the park, and then not entering them.

Hollywood Park general manager James D. Stewart at first had insisted the 14th annual meeting would open, featuring the $25,000 premiere handicap.

Track officials indicated they would accept entries today, for tomorrow's races and would continue to accept them until receiving enough entries to open the meeting. The HBPA, however, said it would stand pat on its demands.

The association won a similar dispute with Tanforan track at San Bruno, Calif., when the track agreed on the 40 per cent figure after several days on inadequate programs.

Some 1,100 horses were stabled at Hollywood Park for the meeting which offers a record $2,600,000 in purses and stakes.

Pils to Test High-Scoring Irish

Vancouver Pilseners will match their first place standing in the Inter-city Lacrosse League against Victoria Shamrocks' claim to having the top three league scorers tonight when the two clubs meet for the first time at Kerrisdale Arena.

The Pils, undefeated in four games and with only a tie against Nanaimo marring an otherwise flawless record, have a talent-packed club this season and are generally regarded as the team to beat for the league title. The clubs will have a return bout at Memorial Arena Friday night.

Shamrocks' production line of Larry Booth, Archie Browning and Whitley Severson continues to lead the league scorers, the threesome being currently tied for first place in the individual scoring race with 15 points each.

Browning leads in goals scored with 11, one more than Booth while Severson, as usual, is pacing the play-makers with 11 assists.

Guest Column

Ann Sprinkling, 17-year-old Victoria High School student is today's guest sports editor of the Times. With members of the Hi-Times staff covering regular news beats, Ann was assigned to the senior A men's softball game Monday night. Her impressions of newspaper work will be found here. Her story of the game appears elsewhere on this page.

By ANN SPRINKLING

How is it that a person can feel proud and humble at the same time? I do and I'll explain why. First I feel proud because I have so many responsibilities as editor of the sports page. I wrote that wonderful write-up of the senior A softball game but believe me it didn't look like that when I took it to Mr. Walker to be proof-read. That's where the humbleness came in. Oh sure, I thought I was going to write such a good story that the front-page headlines would be: "TIMES DISCOVERS GREAT WRITER." Mr. Walker found more errors in that little write-up than there's tea in China.

And see that impressive headline over the world's heavyweight championship fight story? I did that. I'm certainly proud, too, 'cause it took me exactly 15 minutes to think it up. I had to get 16 units on each line (a unit is a letter or a space). I was also told to pick out the sports story that I thought would be best for the feature. The Tyees lost last night and besides, they're on the road, so I didn't think they should get first place. Most everyone is interested in a title bout so that's why I picked the fight story as the feature of the day.

Just to show you how rugged a sports reporter's life is, I had to be in the office at 7 a.m. (that meant getting up at 5.45). Social reporters and such don't have to clock in until 8 o'clock and after. I happened to be the second one here this morning. One sports writer didn't even turn up. He tried to mix writing sports and playing sports, the result being what is thought to be a broken nose. This happened when he and another felder decided to catch the same ball at the same time and in the same place.

There's a great deal more to learn about newspaper work and I'm sure I couldn't learn it all in one day. Will the sports writers who had to put up with me please realize that my writing for a newspaper was a life-long dream come true.

Tyees Hit, But Capitanos Score

Vancouver 11, Victoria 8

Vancouver Capitanos parlayed nine hits, including four three-baggers, into an 11-8 Western International League baseball win over Victoria Tyees Monday night.

The victory boosted the Caps into second spot behind Lewiston Broncs and dumped Tyees back into the third place vacated by Vancouver.

Although Victoria outlived the winners, 16-9, the four triples, off the bats of Dick Briskley, K. Chorlton, Frank Mascaro and Jim Wert, proved the winning margin.

Wert's big blow and Mascaro's triple started four-run rallies in each of the sixth and seventh innings for the Capitanos. Cec Gariotti, Victoria manager, wielded the big bat for the losers, his inside-the-park homer in the third accounting for three Tyee runs.

Rookie Berlyn Hodges started for the Tyees and went along nicely until the sixth when he ran into control trouble, walking three men to force in a run with the Tyees leading 6-3.

TOUGH LUCK BLOW
Don Hopp, winner of four straight games, was called upon in relief. He was greeted by a blooper hit by Jim Wert that went for a triple when it bounced past Bob Moniz in right field, clearing the bases and giving the Caps a 7-6 lead.

Hopp escaped further trouble in the sixth but was nicked for four runs in the seventh as the Caps pounced on him for three hits, including triples by K. Chorlton and Frank Mascaro.

Tyees had the tying run at the plate in the ninth after pinch hitter Nap Guley had singled home one run, but Lu Brannham struck out to end the threat. Bill Bottler finished up for the Tyees as Hopp took his first defeat of the season.

The clubs met again tonight and Wednesday at Vancouver, returning to Victoria for games Thursday, Friday and Saturday with a single game Monday starting at 1:30.

The league swings into full action tonight, with five games on tap. Spokane travels to Kennewick for a set-to with Tri-City. Edmonton is host to Yakima. Calgary entertains Wenatchee and Lewiston meets Salem at the Oregon city.

Hoyt Wilhelm Disproving Soph Jinx
NEW YORK (AP)—Hoyt Wilhelm, ace New York Giants' relief pitcher, is bucking baseball's second year jinx this season, but he's having even better success than he did in his rookie campaign.

Earned run averages compiled by the Associated Press revealed today that Wilhelm, who topped the National League in that department in 1952 with 2.43, has yet to yield an earned run in the 27 innings he's worked.

The 29-year-old knuckleball ace has won two games and lost one.

In the American League, Whitey Ford of New York Yankees shows the lowest earned-run mark. The young southpaw permitted only four runs in 30 frames for a 1.20 average. His record is 2-0.

BALL PRACTICE
Practice for Equimall's fourteen and under baseball teams will be held tonight at Macdonald Park at 6.

NEW ORLEANS—Johnny Tessler, Hartford, Conn., drew with Alvin Peltier, 146-1, New Orleans, 18.

When Furmston came to bat the game, win or lose, was up to him. Frank Kilshaw had knocked in one run and he and Ronnie Benn were on base.

With two out Furmston hit a home run over the centre fielder's head, giving the Aces a 7-6 win, their first of the season following two losses.

The White Sox got their winning run against Cleveland in the eighth inning when Minnie Minoso and Sherman Lollar singled with two out and Chico Carrasquel doubled home Minoso.

Avila's homer had tied the score in the seventh after the White Sox had taken an early lead in the fifth on a single and stolen base by Jim Rivera, a sacrifice and a ground out by Pierce. Rivera led the Chicago attack with three singles.

If Joe Loses, He Quits, Says Felix

Walcott Strategy Revealed

CHICAGO (UP)—Jersey

Joe Walcott's strategy for Friday's heavyweight championship bout with titleholder Rocky Marciano probably calls for a "hit and run" battle, manager Felix Bocchicchio indicated today.

"I think Rocky figures to coast in on this one," Bocchicchio said, "but he's going to have to tear in to Walcott to win."

"He's got to fight to win the fight," Bocchicchio said that Walcott's strategy had been developed long ago.

"He's done everything we asked him to do," he said, "and there are a few things he's got to do to win. Well, he's done them in training and he can do them in the fight."

He indicated that one of the secret weapons would be a "one-two combination punch" which was used in only one battle previously, "at Cleveland when we beat Jimmy Blivins and Walcott was a one-to-five underdog."

"We'll fight him round by round, and I'm lucky to have a fighter who can change his plans from round to round. There aren't many that can do that."

Bocchicchio said that should Walcott lose the battle, "he'll quit."

"I asked him to quit after the last one," he said. "I've got it fixed where he'll have $500 a week for the rest of his life. One way or another, no matter what happens to me, he'll always have that much."

Bocchicchio suffered a heart attack recently and came to Chicago for this bout only because he said Walcott assured him "you won't have to go up and down those ring steps too much."

Numerous observers believed that Walcott, though, would make Marciano force the fight and would resort to the stop-and-start tactics which carried him to ring prominence against former champion Joe Louis, after years of effort.

KAYO NEEDED?
There seemed little doubt that Marciano would have to win by a knockout, or in the late rounds when Walcott could be worn down as a result of steady punching, while both Walcott and Bocchicchio believed definitely Jersey Joe could outbox his foe for the full distance.

International boxing club officials still believed the brawl would draw a gross gate around $500,000.

Ring Tragedy: Aussie Succumbs After Kayo

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Johnny Slockie, Australian boxer, regarded as one of the country's most promising lightweights, died in hospital today after being knocked out in a fight Monday night.

An emergency brain operation early today failed to save his life. He fell to the canvas in the 12th round of a bout with Dick Lowe of Melbourne and never regained consciousness.

An Aborigine, Slockie, 22, was married with two children. His wife said today he had been fighting ever since he left school "to get money for us to buy our home."

Furmston's Home Run Gives Aces First Win
Butler Bros. Aces 7, Chinese Students 6

By ANN SPRINKLING
John Furmston's home run, with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning, gave Butler Bros. Aces a 7-6 victory over Chinese Students in Monday night's Senior A Men's Softball League game at Central Park.

Up until the eighth inning it was the Aces' game all the way, although a line drive along third base by Bung Derr and an error by the catcher in the first inning, enabled Derr of the Students to score the first run.

Not to be outdone, Aces scored two runs in the bottom half of the inning. Herb Bate's double and wild throws by the Students allowed Harold Yardley and John Furmston to score from third and second.

In the second inning Don Hendry reached first on an error, and went to second on a sacrifice. Hendry scored on a hit by pitcher Archie Sluggetti and a miscue by the catcher, making the score 3-1 in favor of Butlers.

Students broke loose in the eighth, starting off with a clean hit by Quinton Mar who ended up at second base with the help of a bad throw.

Pinch-hitting for catcher Gordy Chow, Barry Jackson whammed a double into centre field to bring in Mar. Jackson moved to third on a sacrifice by pitcher Bud Ross.

PACKAGE OF DYNAMITE
Then little Ed Lou came to bat and proved the saying, "all good things come in small packages." Lou smashed a triple into the crowd in left field, bringing in Jackson to tie the score at 3-3.

At this time, Aces' right fielder Furmston and pitcher Sluggetti exchanged positions with Furmston commencing to try his hand at pitching.

A single by Don Robinson brought in Lou. Bung Derr walked; brother Tommy hit a double, enabling Robinson to score and Tommy Derr crossed home plate after George Brown skied out.

When Furmston came to bat the game, win or lose, was up to him. Frank Kilshaw had knocked in one run and he and Ronnie Benn were on base.

PUCK PLAYOFF RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE OVER '52

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (BUP)—Net playoff receipts from the Allan and Memorial Cup series this year totalled about $135,000 which was $25,000 more than the two cup series attracted in 1952, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has announced.

George Dudley, secretary-manager of the CAHA, said receipts from this year's Allan Cup playoffs totalled about $72,000 compared with only $37,000 for the 1952 series. Memorial Cup receipts this year of about $63,000 were down slightly from the 1952 net of $72,000.

Football Feud May Be Taken to Courts

TORONTO (CP)—Another international feud is simmering in professional football. If anything, it's proving to be big-time American clubs that Canada isn't in the bush league.

The latest tiff between Canadian and United States teams developed Monday over the Canadian signing of George Blanda, quarterback on last year's Chicago Bears of the National Football League. It's almost certain to end up in the courts—as the Dick Huffman case did two years ago.

Coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union, announced Saturday that the 25-year-old Blanda had signed with his club for the 1953 season.

"He can't do it," cried George Halas, owner-coach of the Bears, in Chicago. "The boy has a reserve option clause in his contract that gives us choice of his services for the following season. And that means 1953."

Not so, said Voyles at Hamilton shortly before he left for his home at Vero Beach, Fla.

"The action is illegal," said Bert Bell in Philadelphia, commissioner of the NFL. "If that's the way they want to play we

Junior League Reinstatement Recommended

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The decision of the Quebec Senior Hockey League to turn professional appeared today the only disconcerting episode in a little love feast to welcome the return of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association to the family fold.

Action of the big Quebec circuit came Monday night only a few hours after the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association had practically agreed, through a decision of its resolutions committee, to reinstate the suspended Quebec branch.

The committee's recommendation for reinstatement went before the plenary session today at the CAHA's annual meeting.

The QSHL move was not a surprise, either to the CAHA or to the QAHA delegates awaiting re-admission. Its effect could, scarcely be assessed at the moment, but there was a general opinion among delegates to the national convention that the CAHA as a whole could not suffer.

It was felt there now could be more concentration on senior hockey. The QSHL has operated with the Maritime Major League in the post-season series that affected only the two circuits.

The QSHL was always the stronger.

President Martin Conway of the QAHA said the situation has arisen since he and his four other representatives from the Quebec branch left home and the matter needs further study.

The CAHA showed far less concern over the QSHL action than it did over the phrasing of the application by the Quebec branch for return to good standing.

President W. B. George and secretary-manager George Dudley of the CAHA said the QSHL decision was okay with them and they felt the Quebec amateur branch, if admitted to regular status, "can take care of its own affairs."

"There was a similar situation in Ontario when the major series folded," they said. "Now we have a stronger senior league in the Allan Cup series in Ontario than before."

The implication was that Quebec can pep up its senior series for competition in the Allan Cup playoffs.

McELROY HEADS INVADERS

B.C. Amateur Entry Strong

A select field of Vancouver golfers will compete in the annual British Columbia Amateur Golf championship at the Colwood Golf and Country Club over the week-end.

Rumors had it that many of the top golfers would pass up the tournament, which runs through Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, but it is certain that only two or three outstanding mainland swingers will not be present.

Although last year's winner, Bill Mawhinney, is now a professional, runner-up Walt McElroy, former Canadian champion, has entered and will be a favorite contender in returning the cup to the mainland.

Fred McFarlane, another Shaughnessy player, as is McElroy, has entered, while past president of the BCAGA, Les Wagner, is the only entry for Point Grey.

Jack Ellis, Marine Drive divotter, has entered but Windermere star Lyle Crawford has not. Also on the non-entry list is Marine Drive's Bob Kidd, who reached the finals of the Vancouver Province match play tournament. His reason: "It cost too much to go over there. Also it requires time off."

Although Bert Tiehurst, former Inter-City Lacrosse League star, is the lone entry from Fraser View, the Vancouver club has entered Wally McAl-

Turner Seeks Davey Match

NEW YORK (UP)—Gil Turner, winner by a technical knockout over game but out-gunned Johnny Lombardo, said today he is hoping to meet Chuck Davey in a welterweight contenders' bout outdoors in August.

Turner, Philadelphia, now ranked No. 4 in the division ruled by Kid Gavilan, is campaigning for an eventual return shot at Gavilan, who stopped him in their only meeting.

His latest step on the comeback trail was his one-sided win over Lombardo Monday night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena in a widely-televised bout. Turner wasn't able to floor his Mt. Carmel, Pa., opponent, but he battered him so heavily that referee Barney Felix intervened after one minute of the seventh round.

FORD-OAKVILLE

largest plant under one roof in Canada!

Forty-nine years ago, a little group of enthusiastic, forward-looking Canadians founded Ford of Canada, and opened Canada's first automobile plant. Now, still pioneering—still building for the future—Ford of Canada begins production in the greatest automobile assembly plant ever constructed in this country.

Ford-Oakville is, in fact, the largest plant under one roof in Canada. But sheer physical size is not the important thing about this new industrial giant. Brought into operation in Ford of Canada's 50th Year, this great new plant is a multi-million-dollar pledge of this company's firm, continuing resolve to keep in step with Canada through the great future that plainly lies ahead. Built in record time... by Canadians... to serve Canadians... to build cars and trucks to suit our Canadian needs and preferences, Ford-Oakville is truly an achievement of which all throughout the country may well be proud.

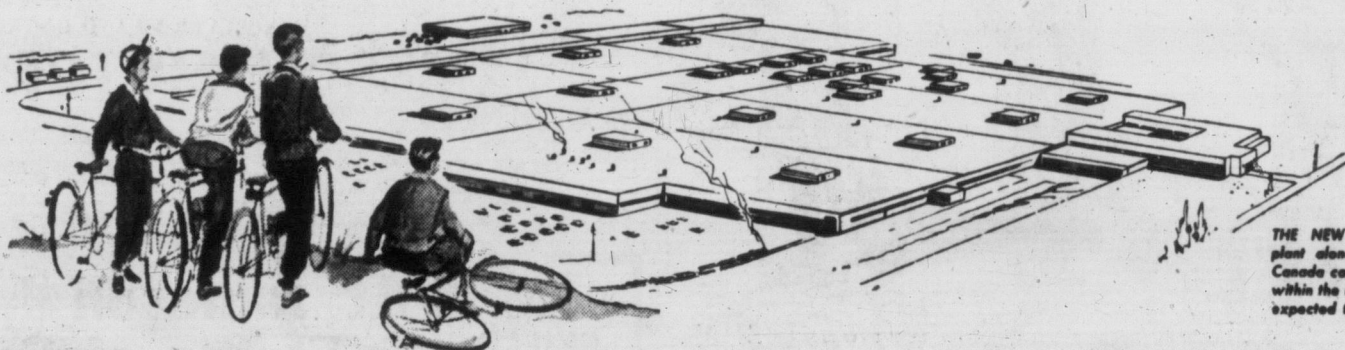

Ford of Canada is in the automobile business. All the vast new facilities of Ford-Oakville are for one purpose only—the assembly of Ford and Monarch, Mercury and Meteor cars—and Ford and Mercury Trucks.

Manufacturing operations will continue to be handled at Ford of Canada's Windsor plants—where another vast expansion program is now under way, to provide the largest automotive engine plant in Canada, the most up-to-date automotive foundry, and a machine shop second to none in modern tools and precision equipment.

These Ford of Canada plants represent a distinct forward step in Canada's fast-moving progress as an industrial nation. They will mean better cars and trucks for you—better values for your money—and better service through our 1,100 dealers from coast to coast.

FIFTY YEARS FORWARD WITH FORD

THE NEW FORD-OAKVILLE... Assembly plant alone covers 32½ acres. All Ford of Canada cars and trucks will be assembled here within the near future, by a plant working force expected to reach 4,000 men.

Jettisoned Bombs May Have Sunk Vessel

TOKYO (AP)—The United States Air Force said four American Thunderjet fighters jettisoned their bombs at almost the exact place and time an unidentified ship was reported to have exploded and sank today.

The U.S.A.F. said the Thunderjets dumped their bombs in the sea approximately 38 miles southeast of Misawa air force base between 5:40 and 6:20 a.m.

A Japanese farmer said at approximately 6:20 a.m. he saw an unidentified ship of about 3,000 tons blow up one mile off the village of Samurayama—36 miles south of Misawa.

Far East Air Forces headquarters said the area was a restricted bombing range set up by agreement with the Japanese government. It said maritime craft enter the area at their own risk.

Socred BCHIS Policy Supported by Bonner

Plan No Longer Political Issue, A-G Tells Oak Bay Audience; Criticizes Liberals

Hospital insurance is no longer a political issue in British Columbia, Attorney-General Robert W. Bonner said Monday night at Cadboro Bay Scout Hall.

"The scheme has more people in it than ever before," he told a crowd of close to 80. "We have broadened the payroll deduction plan, and the scheme is in the best financial position ever."

He was asked to explain the Socred stand while speaking on behalf of Oak Bay candidate Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

"We propose no variation in the act," he said. "People previously were goaded into the scheme. We have tried to make it so people will want to belong." Up popped a heckler.

"You mean you've admitted to going against your election promise to make the scheme non-compulsory?" he asked the attorney-general.

"Well," said Mr. Bonner, "when most people belong to the scheme, and the direct contributors keep up their payments, and everyone seems to like it, it's a question whether it is compulsory or not. The only change we made was to give it wider public acceptance."

He dropped the jocular attitude when dealing with his "denial of a royal commission to investigate real estate scandals."

"If evidence existed to justify a royal commission, then there would have been sufficient evidence to launch either a civil suit or a criminal prosecution. I'm not going to send a royal commission on a fishing expedition."

"If you have information that will permit a criminal prosecution, then I'll start it," he told his questioner. "If it's the basis for a civil suit, then follow recognized channels."

Mr. Bonner criticized the Liberals when he said "B.C. would have been better off if the governments of this province and Ottawa had been opposed."

"Look at the dominion-provincial tax agreements," he said. "We would be farther ahead with a government that would stand up for the needs of B.C. We have seen in the past that there has been no particular advantage to this province having a government that is a little brother to the government in Ottawa."

"There are many things in federal politics we don't want here," he said. "It almost

Cowichan Ratepayers Grill Candidates

DUNCAN—South Cowichan Ratepayers' Association on Monday night fired barbed questions at Esquimalt and Cowichan-Newcastle election candidates.

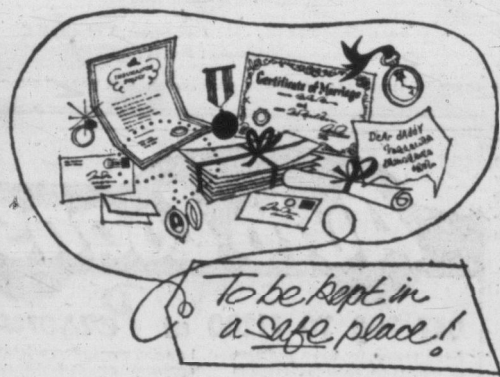

Six of the 10 candidates in the two provincial ridings attended. Questions were prepared by the association, and each candidate was given two minutes to outline his party's stand on the subject.

All candidates supported the establishment of convalescent homes for chronic invalids, and Liberal and Conservative candidates advocated an 80-20 division of education cost between the provincial government and municipalities.

Questions concerned school taxation, improvement of secondary roads, and extension of the provisions of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service.

Cowichan candidates who put themselves "on the griddle" were Robert Strachan, CCF; Reeve A. E. Beasley, Independent; and Andrew Whisker, Liberal.

Esquimalt Ratepayers Ask New Subdivision

Would Open 'Eyesore' Greenwood-Hadfield Area to New Homes; Old House Condemned

By MARGARET BELL, Esquimalt High School

Eighty Esquimalt ratepayers petitioned the municipal council Monday night to open a new subdivision in the Greenwood-Hadfield area.

They called the area an eyesore.

As the new division would entail some road construction, municipal engineer J. Graeme opposed the matter on grounds that present road programs were sufficient.

However the council moved that the municipal engineer make a survey and report within six weeks so that the council can act with full information.

In the interests of the owner, the house at 510 Gore Street, which collapsed a month ago on a sleeping baby's carriage, was condemned by the council and is to be pulled down within 60 days. The baby was unhurt.

Municipal clerk J. Allen and building inspector E. Fulcher will represent Esquimalt at the annual conference of the municipal officers' association to be held here on June 11 and 12.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele and council accepted an offer to participate in the Greater Victoria celebrations parade June 2. Councillor G. F. Argyle will arrange for an open car and an appropriate banner.

The appointment of a part-time maintenance mechanic for Esquimalt was approved by the council on a three-month trial basis.

A municipal absentee vote for armed forces was rejected at the meeting because it was felt that it would be both inconvenient and impractical.

Other council business included a report that curb and gutter construction between old Esquimalt and Esquimalt Roads, and paving on the upper block of Phoenix Street, has been completed. Paving on Fairview and Viewfield Road and storm and sanitary sewer work has been carried out, reported J. Graeme, municipal engineer. Tenders have been called for the Macaulay Bend excavation. Reeve Wurtele will attend Nanaimo's May 24 celebrations.

If Strike Ties Sewer Job Private Firms May Serve

PARTNER in the law firm of Straith, Ruttan & Davidson, J. G. Ruttan has been elected president of the Victoria Bar Association, succeeding J. Howard Harman. J. Allan Baker has been elected vice president; Allan Cox, secretary, and G. J. Sullivan, treasurer. Named to serve on the executive were Carew Martin, Q.C.; Hugh Henderson, J. C. Scott-Harston, W. Burns Scott, George Gregory, W. R. McIntyre, Lloyd G. McKenzie, T. P. O'Grady, E. E. Pearlman and A. B. Macfarlane.

A suggestion that Saanich's large sewer construction project be turned over to private contractors in the advent of a strike of municipal workers was made by Councillor Leslie Passmore at a council meeting Monday.

Noting a possibility of a municipal workers' strike, Mr. Passmore said the council should take "immediate action" to see that nothing holds up work on the sewage project this summer.

"The engineer should be asked to draw up specifications of the work to be done so that we could, if necessary, turn the entire sewer project over to private contractors," he said. "This would include the leasing of our construction equipment."

ing of our construction equipment."

Mr. R. H. Wooten said Mr. Passmore's plan was not feasible.

"Employees of private contractors are better organized than our workers," he said. "They just wouldn't cross the picket line of their fellow workers."

Reeve Joseph Casey said that while he thought Mr. Passmore's suggestion a "good idea," he felt that the matter for the time being should be set aside.

Already $8,000 worth of free labor has been donated by men of the unions.

It was their contribution to the Community Chest and was highly lauded by Glen Hamilton, camp supervisor.

When the building is completed—possibly this week-end—it will be worth about $15,000.

They are members of the carpenters and joiners, plumbers, shinglers and roofers' unions. They reported for work at 8 a.m. and finished at 5.30 p.m. Ernie Oliver, foreman, states he has never had a more enthusiastic group of workers.

Saanich Petitioners Would Curb Building Until Water Supply Sure

By MARJORIE LAWSON
Mount View High School

The difficulties of supplying the necessary water for districts which are affected by shortage in the Saanich area, came before the council Monday night, when a group of citizens of the Synod Road area stated their case. They wanted more pressure.

Shortage of water was particularly felt during meal times, for sanitation purposes, for cleaning and gardening.

The lack of water for sanitation led one irate ratepayer to state that a housing unit should not be allowed to go forward unless proper facilities could be assured. He felt that sanitation was a vital factor in the community and lack of water would tend to decrease it.

A second petitioner pointed out to the councillors the advantages of "earlier water restriction." However, Reeve Joseph Casey felt that this solution would be unwise at the present time.

Councillor H. K. Bate added that this proposed enforcement would be "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

A resident quickly retorted that "Peter will get all, however."

Reeve Casey pointed out that the increased building development, coupled with the lack of water, was becoming an increasing problem and until some provision could be made to curb the building-boom this problem would be a continual headache to the taxpayers and the council.

He emphasized, however, the need for water by the 21 petitioning residents involved, was

CITY ORPHANS FEVER VICTIMS

Two more cases of scarlet fever—a boy, four, and a girl, three, are reported at B.C. Protestant Orphanage by city medical health authorities.

The children are in isolation at the orphanage. One seven-year-old girl from the orphanage is still in isolation at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A matter which must be settled as soon as possible. A final decision rests on the feasibility of installing a pump at the top of Merriman Road, thus giving the citizens of Synod Road the necessary water pressure for domestic needs.

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Former Governess to Her Majesty

The intimate biography of Queen Elizabeth, written by her good friend and former governess Marion Crawford, appears exclusively in the Victoria Daily Times in 26 chapters. Out of her 17 years of close association with the royal family "Crawford" has previously published "The Little Princess" and "Mother and Queen: The Story of Queen Mary."

VIII

It is usually the wife who spreads oil on the troubled waters of a marriage. She likes to hear her husband praised, hates to feel a tension growing in her house when he is cross or short with visitors, as may well happen if he is not well. Men are very vocal about their aches and pains.

How much greater is the strain on a Royal wife! I have a deep admiration for Prince Philip as a grown man. He has qualities I greatly admire, but many of them are not fashioned for Court use. He is frank and outspoken, keen to be on with the next thing, and impatient of flattery. He hates unnecessary fuss and all publicity.

The fanfare which heralds his every move now must be torture to him. But it was the small price he gladly paid for marrying the woman he loved—to step out of the cheerful, semi-obscurity of the Navy into

Royal Engagement Proved Tiring

Princess Elizabeth's engagement period was an exhausting time for her. There were so many things to attend to that she simply had to break off sometimes.

Even before the engagement, when nothing had been decided, the Princess had many uncomfortable moments in public when she overheard remarks about a possible "love match."

But at last everything was decided. The arrangements for the wedding brought great activity to the palace and these too were things of public interest.

Even while on their honeymoon Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were pestered by photographers and curious tourists who made special journeys to try to catch a glimpse of them.

It was not until they at last got up to Birkhall, a house belonging to the King near Balmoral, that they were able to be really alone.

The native courtesy of the Scots countryfolk showed itself in their tact. They left the Royal couple entirely to themselves.

It was winter, and snow was on the ground. Princess Elizabeth wrote me a charming letter. The countryside was lovely, she said, far more beautiful than it had been when we were up there at about the same time of year at the beginning of the war. They had a new puppy, Rummy, with them, who was enjoying himself romping about in the snow.

It must have been a happy time for them, left completely alone together for the first time in their lives.

But that particular kind of "being alone" happiness could not last long; soon they were back in the centre of things, doing their great work in the world.

It has become much easier for me to see the Princess as a person since I left the palace and began, my married life in the first home of my own I have ever had.

What matters most to all of us now is the character of the woman who, by the grace of God, now guides the destiny of many lands.

What is nickel plating?

"Nickel plating means putting a coating of nickel on the surface of some other metal by means of electricity. The things to be nickel plated, such as alarm clock cases, tea kettles or car bumpers are placed in a tank containing a solution of nickel salts. When an electric current is turned on, a layer of nickel is deposited on the surface of the metal articles in the tank. The longer they are left in the tank the thicker the nickel plating becomes."

"Why do they use nickel plating?"
"It gives a handsome, silvery surface, and it also keeps things from rusting, because nickel resists rust—even in salt water."

"Is that nickel plating on our car grille?"
"Yes, those parts are given a plating of nickel, finished off with a thin coat of chromium. Almost anywhere you go you'll find things plated with nickel to help keep them from rusting and to make them bright and attractive."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

"The younger generation," they asked, "what is wrong with it? The younger generation, what is it coming to?" Those questions, of course, are hopelessly old-fashioned. Nobody asks them any more.

Instead, "these teen-agers," they ask, "what is wrong with them? What are they coming to?"

The questions about the younger generation got themselves answered, so it is now the former younger generation who ask the same questions about teen-agers.

Today at The Times we are being exposed to teen-agers en masse. I have not counted, but I am sure at least 322 ebullient young people are milling about the city room, and as far as I can see (a) there is nothing wrong with them and (b) they will probably come to a great deal more successful and happy end than the old-fashioned "younger generation," of which I am an alumnus.

I have very little patience with those who condemn the manners, morals, and intellectual abilities of teen-agers. One of the more unpleasant traits of man is his distrust and suspicion of anything or anyone he doesn't understand.

Teen-agers aren't dumb. They know they aren't understood, they know adults suspect them and mistrust them. If teen-agers were a public utility company or a large manufacturer, they would hire a public relations counsel and spend vast sums of money explaining who and what they are.

But being only teenagers, they operate in a world over which they have no control, but which they'll be expected to run successfully in a few years. And they do so with no press agent to guide them.

As a result, teen-agers are usually viewed with alarm or, at best, Damned With Faint Praise.

This is arrant nonsense, and any constituent—even one as ancient as I—can prove it by closing his eyes for five minutes and remembering himself when he was a teenager, or a member of the younger generation, or the lost generation, or whatever the elders called his crowd when he was being viewed with alarm.

I would suggest this young group be given a new name: Tween Agers.

They are struggling through the most important transitional period in life.

They are 'tween childhood and maturity; they are treated like children, expected to act like adults; they are 'tween the forces of discipline and self-control.

Despite criticism, they are doing a real solid job. Bless 'em.

All RIGHT, son. WILL you sit up STRAIGHT and KEEP your elbows OFF the table? DON'T they TEACH you ANYTHING in school?

Duncan Inquest to Follow Logger's Murder Charge

A coroner's jury in Duncan was scheduled today to view the body of Eric Lindstrom, 43, who died Sunday of head injuries received at midnight Saturday in a fight in the up-land town.

Charged with murder and held in custody is Frank Homeniuk, 37, boom man at Crofton.

Sgt. T. D. Brunton, RCMP, said an inquest date would be set following the jury's view of the body. Dr. D. B. Roxburgh, Victoria pathologist, performed a post-mortem examination Monday.

Homeniuk was first charged with assault. The charge was changed to murder when Lindstrom, father of seven children, died after an emergency operation by Dr. C. H. Beaver-Potts. According to reports, Lind-

'I'll Take 25 of Those and a Ton of ...'

Even a Shriner must be fed—and with 4,000 of them descending on Victoria June 5-7, George Brown, chairman of the local catering committee for the Gizeh Temple's 50th anniversary ceremonies, is shopping on the grand scale. Here he looks over a small portion of the meat required with fellow-Shriner and butcher, Dick Wakeham (left). One dinner alone, at which 2,500 will sit down in the Curling Rink, will use up one and a half tons of potato salad,

800 pounds of meat, 250 pies, 250 gallons of coffee. The "tab" for the meal will be $4,000. Brown's biggest problem was securing dining tables. He is using flooring sections from the arena as table tops, has scoured the Island for saw-horses, finally had 250 made, may need another 100. Shriners will be on their own for breakfast and lunch Friday and Saturday, will tax local restaurants to capacity, perhaps beyond. (Times Photo.)

Defense Seeks Exhibit Ban During Appeal

Arresting Officer Identifies Jemmy

By BRIAN GRIER
Oak Bay High School

A crowbar, which a city police officer swore Robert Douglas Morgan had in his possession before he attempted flight from the law in the downtown area last March 21, was admitted as an exhibit in County Court today despite strong objection by Morgan's counsel.

Morgan, a Vancouver man, stands charged with unlawful possession of nitro-glycerine under suspicious circumstances. He was arrested and charged by Constable Kenneth R. Wainwright after a chase in which shots were fired, in the vicinity of Cormorant and Blanshard, on the evening in question.

Constable Wainwright, first Crown witness called at Morgan's speedy trial before County Court Judge Joseph B. Clearihue, said he saw accused and a companion standing together at the rear of Woodward's warehouse on Pandora Avenue, and when he showed himself the two took flight.

One man ran onto Douglas Street and escaped. Morgan, he testified, hesitated for a second or two, and during that time took from an inside pocket a crowbar, or jemmy, which he threw on the ground before taking flight.

The officer was able to identify the crowbar produced by Crown counsel J. Ronald Grant.

Defense counsel Joseph McKenna, QC, objected strenuously to the article submitted as an exhibit. He argued a crowbar had nothing whatever to do with a charge concerning nitro-glycerine.

Judge Clearihue overruled the objection on Crown counsel's argument that it was relevant in establishing "suspicious circumstances."

Judge Clearihue and court officials showed concern when a bottle, alleged by the Crown to contain nitro-glycerine, was produced as an exhibit.

The constable testified the bottle had been found under a plank where he had observed the two men conferring.

"You'd better handle that carefully," Judge Clearihue told lawyer Grant who held it for the court to see.

"No wonder young people do not respect their elders," he told this Hi-Times reporter.

The mayor, who is running for a Victoria seat in the June 9 provincial election, said he would make this the theme of one of his campaign radio talks.

He made special reference to many remarks made in the last legislative sessions, stating they were "certainly no example" for young listeners in the gallery to follow.

He said he did not refer to criticism of policy and administration but to what he termed "improper statements."

Seven hundred B.C. seamen on three major B.C. coast steamship lines have voted "overwhelmingly" for strike action in a dispute over hours and wages.

CLOVER POINT TOMBSTONE NO MYSTERY

The mystery concerning a tombstone at Clover Point has been solved.

The stone, discovered in a pile of rubble on the waterfront, once marked the grave of John Greenwood, local realtor, who died July 12, 1931, and was buried in Colwood Burial Park.

The stone recently was replaced with a larger one. The small one, subject of speculation, was supposed to have been destroyed.

Sailors to Cast Early Ballots In June Voting

By SHIRLEY CANNON
(Royal Oak High School)

British Columbia naval personnel won't miss their votes in the June 9 election.

Arrangements are being made so men of HMC Ships Antigonish and Beacon Hill, which will leave on training cruises before election day, can vote in the advance poll early in June.

Details will be announced in a day or two.

The arrangements will allow RCN personnel to vote in the important election.

Last year, special arrangements also were made to let sailors cast their ballots. At that time several RCN ships returned from training cruises and moored at Bedwell Harbor, South Pender Island, and Vancouver, so returning officers could go aboard with ballot boxes.

Mr. Massey was scheduled to arrive in Vancouver at 12:45 to entrain for the interior immediately.

Local Truckers Return to Work

Local "independent" truckers resumed work today on the Patricia Bay Highway after a dispute started when a fleet of Vancouver trucks endeavored to "move in" on the job.

The Vancouver operators have applied to the motor carrier branch of the Public Utilities Commission for a refund of their special permits for the job.

A PUC spokesman said the road contractor, General Construction Co. of Vancouver, chose to hire local labor and truck operators on the government job rather than outside help.

"The PUC was not required to do this matter," he said.

Mayor Hits at 'Mud Slinging' In Campaigning

By KAREN HOLM
(St. Ann's Academy)

Mud throwing in politics was criticized by Mayor, Claude Harrison today as a poor example for the young people of the day.

"No wonder young people do not respect their elders," he told this Hi-Times reporter.

The mayor, who is running for a Victoria seat in the June 9 provincial election, said he would make this the theme of one of his campaign radio talks.

He made special reference to many remarks made in the last legislative sessions, stating they were "certainly no example" for young listeners in the gallery to follow.

ELK LAKE FAIR, TRACK SITE PURCHASE SOUGHT

By KAREN HOLM, St. Ann's Academy

A proposal for the development of dog racing, auto racing and a new fairground was received today at City Hall from Bill Archer, of 1826 Government Street.

Mr. Archer expressed the belief that a piece of property, city owned at Elk Lake, would fit specifications required for such sports.

He also suggested that since no million-dollar park was forthcoming, this might be an excellent opportunity for Victoria to have another major tourist attraction.

When KVOZ-TV, Bellingham's new station opens up, it will be the second strongest sender with a 34,000-watt video transmitter.

It is expected that KVOZ-TV will begin sending test patterns in this area towards the end of this week or the first of next week.

Labor Council Charges Jobless Lose Benefits

By BETTE MARIE CARLSON
(Belmont High School)

A protest against disqualification of casual employees from unemployment insurance benefits until their holiday pay has been exhausted was sent to Ottawa today by the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council (TLC).

A copy of the protest will go to the local board of the Unemployment Insurance Commission with a request for its help in revising regulations.

According to union business agents, when a casual employee is discharged from a job he receives his holiday pay. UIC regulations, however, require him to consider the pay as further wages, and until the money is "used up" he cannot qualify for unemployment insurance benefits.

However, most construction firms close down for a week in the summer to give employees holidays, and the casual help are cut off from insurance benefits.

In a letter sent to the national board of the UIC, A. P. Raymond, secretary of the local council, said "holiday pay should not be taken into consideration, but should be credited to the wage period."

"Holiday pay is something earned but withheld until the holiday period," he explained.

Some unions look forward to a system in effect in Alberta and Ontario, where employees are given stamps in lieu of holiday pay, then receive the pay once each year.

Coroner Investigates Duncan Bathing Death

By MARJ LAWSON
Mount View High School

A 21-year-old man, found guilty of breaking and entering and theft while on parole from the New Haven institution, was given another chance to make good by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

The magistrate re-committed Denis Kilpatrick of Victoria to New Haven for a determinate period of three months and an indeterminate period of 18 months.

Kilpatrick broke into the Bazaar, a second-hand store on Broad Street, and stole a quantity of clothing. He pleaded that he was intoxicated when he committed the offense.

The magistrate said he was not going to send him to jail. "Your conduct at New Haven was so good that I'm going to send you back there," he said. "I'm going to give you a new chance."

Chinese Seek Freer Entry Into Canada

By SHARON RITCHIE
Oak Bay Junior High School

Relaxation of immigration regulations to allow the entry to Canada of more refugees from Communist China was urged here today by Henry Lee, Victoria importer of Oriental goods.

His plea followed one by Foon Sien, national president of the Chinese Benevolent Association, speaking in Vancouver.

Mr. Lee pointed to the fact there are nearly 6,000 Chinese and families of Canadian-Chinese at present in Hong Kong where they had fled from the Communist mainland.

He said there are 2,500,000 people on the island, which is smaller in area than Victoria. Many city Chinese are supporting families there, but cannot bring them to Canada.

Mr. Lee said he could understand that adult Chinese immigrants may be slower to adapt Canadian ways, therefore could appreciate the present regulations. But he stressed the harsh conditions many of the refugees are living under.

He added that when a tenant rents a room, he immediately partitions off half of it to rent to someone else for a higher price than he paid himself. He also said that many people used to country life find it hard to get a job in the city.

SHOPPING GUIDE

You Can Dream, Can't You?
... They Do Come True!

By PENNY SAVER

Goin' fishin'? If you hadn't planned to, you should, for with all the new-fangled gear on the market for luring unsuspecting fishes, how can you miss?

New this season is a plastic fishing plug with silver "scales" fused into the plastic. So realistic is this piscatory lure, that even the angler himself finds it difficult to distinguish it from shiners when its rippling through the water. Price $2.75.

Compared to the old collapsible style net, this floating trout net is cheaper and so much more handy to use. If you get excited in the skirmish and drop it (which is quite unlikely, because it has an elastic cord to slip over your shoulder) you can't possibly lose it for it won't sink. Just don't let it get caught in the current! $1.75.

Nylon fishing lines that won't rot and require no dressing are strong and long lasting. Bought in 100-yard spools, these lines vary in price according to the weight of fish you'll be catching. A 33-pound tested line is $2.95, 44-pound, $3.95, and 66-pound, $4.95.

Little girls will adore the new Peter Pan apron sets for 69 cents. Sets of two aprons (one for dolly) have printed characters from the latest Disney movie on them. There's Peter Pan himself, Tinker Bell, Wendy, Michael and the mermaid on lovely pastel-colored plastic.

Having just rummaged through my untidy purse in a vain attempt to find my lipstick (and now I remember leaving it on my dressing table), I am determined once again to go on a neatness campaign with myself! I must have at least one extra lipstick in my favorite shade to have with me at all times! This campaign must also involve buying an attractive cosmetic bag for my purse and I know where I can get one for something between 39 to 89 cents. Must make up my mind whether I would be happier with a striped, plaid, or plain-colored one, since I'll be seeing a lot of it.

Monosodium glutamate is called for in a number of recipes and is most effective for bringing out flavor in meats without adding a flavor of its own. It is excellent to use with less expensive cuts of meat, for it tenderizes as well. Sold locally under a trade name; four ounces cost 98 cents.

Miss Hart Writes Play For 'I Am Canadian' Day

By AMY BANDREVIK
Victoria College

Outline of program for "I Am Canadian Day," to be held in Beacon Hill Park on June 21, commencing at 2:30, was given by Miss Ellen Hart at meeting of Local Council of Women, Monday afternoon in the YWCA.

The program will include a historical play written by Miss Hart and presented by St. Luke's Players.

President Mrs. R. D. Harvey and Miss Ethel Gray, who both attended a meeting of provincial council in Vancouver, spoke on the business of that meeting.

The rehabilitation centre at Vancouver was described by Miss Gray, where those suffering from palsy, arthritis and other similar diseases are helped.

"Happiness brings health," Miss Gray said, "and if a person occupies a work bench at such a centre, there is less chance of his occupying a bed in a hospital."

It was unanimously agreed that a letter be sent to the City Council to commend it for making the building of the new Victoria Nursing Home a realization.

The Massey Report was topic of Miss Lottie Bowron's report. She stressed national development, human assets and the Canada Council for fostering Canada's cultures abroad.

Dr. Marian Sherman was named to attend the National Council of Women meetings as a delegate from this city. Mrs. Harvey presided at the meeting.

PORT ANGELES CHAPTER

Honor Society of Women Educators Meet at Elan

Upsilon Chapter (Port Angeles) of Delta Kappa Gamma Society held a dinner meeting at Elan, Cowichan Bay, last Saturday. President Hazel Murray presided. Eighteen members from Port Angeles were joined by 14 members and guests from Victoria.

The theme of the meeting was growth and development of Delta Kappa Gamma as an honor society for women educators. Mrs. Rachel Royston Knutsen, Seattle, spoke about the founders of the society which had its origin in Texas 25 years ago. She also outlined the qualities of membership, some of the traditions, the program of work and the purposes of the society.

Qualities of membership, she said, included skill in teaching, professional interest and growth and high standards of co-operation and loyalty, high personal and social qualities. Educational achievement (a degree is not necessary), to be capable of and willing to give professional service; participation in professional, civic and cultural affairs, and other varied areas of service.

A program of work is built around a five-year program—1949-1954—on teacher welfare, teacher improvement, legislation and international relations. Several purposes of the society are to unite women with a common work interest, to endow scholarships for teachers to continue studies and to protect the interests of women teachers.

Later, some of the Port Angeles members put on a skit which showed how Dr. Annie Webb Blanton, University of Texas, had the inspiration to organize the society, which has since spread into many states.

After the meeting, a display of square dancing by a group of young people from Chemainus was enjoyed. Majority of those attending the meeting stayed overnight at Elan. After driving round the Cowichan district on Sunday, they returned to Port Angeles on the Sunday afternoon ferry.

Spring Flowers Make Perfect Setting for Saturday Wedding

Tapering candles shed a soft glow on arrangements of delicate spring blossoms in St. John's Anglican Church last Saturday evening for the wedding of Eleanor Constance Leslie-Melville, daughter of Mrs. A. E. Mallet and the late Mr. A. Leslie-Melville, 1187 Hewlett Place, and David William Metcalfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Metcalfe, 1639 Pinewood Ave.

Canon George Biddle performed the ceremony and Frederick Chubb played traditional organ music. The church choir, of which the bride had been a member, proceeded the bridal party up the aisle, singing "Oh Perfect Love." During signing the register they sang "Blessed Be the God and Father," with Mrs. Mildred Crawford and Bill Wilson, soloists.

The psalm and wedding responses were sung. Arthur Mallet gave his stepdaughter in marriage.

White satin, styled with scalloped lace yoke, lily point sleeves of lace and a graceful skirt ending in a long train, created the wedding gown. A cap of matching lace banded with orange blossoms held the finger-tip veil of illusion net and the shower bouquet was pink roses and heather.

Sister of the bride, Miss Peggy Leslie-Melville was maid of honor in yellow and mauve; Miss Jo-Anne Crawford and Mrs. Phyllis Hazard, bridesmaids and bridesmatron, in pink and mauve, respectively. Their gowns were taffeta, styled similarly to the bride's, with net overskirts caught with tiny flowers. They carried complimenting flower bouquets and wore similar flower wreaths in their hair.

George Metcalfe stood with his brother as best man and ushers were Keith Perkins and Red Redick.

'Tobacco Road' Protested

A local Catholic women's group has lodged a protest over the bringing to Victoria of the controversial play, "Tobacco Road."

A letter embodying the protest was sent today to the York Theatre management by Mrs. John Sullivan, secretary of the Senior Subdivision of the Catholic Women's League of Canada.

Decision to protest presentation of the play here was made at a meeting of the group last week, at which Mrs. J. Michaelis, president, was in the chair.

It was the feeling of the meeting that there were so many good plays to be had, that there should be no need to book one of a questionable nature.

The "Tobacco Road" to be presented here, starting Thursday, is a production of the Everyman Theatre Company of Vancouver.

DUNCAN—John Sandys-Wunsch, Queen's Scout chosen to visit the Coronation, left here Monday to join the Coronation contingent from Canada.

(OSCAR CLASS-REVIVAL) "HENRY V" (Odeon): From the moment the famed 15th century Globe Theatre's standard is raised one becomes lost in the wonder that is Shakespeare and carried away with the excitement and majesty of the play that the bard wrote in 1599.

Carried by the production, direction and fine acting of Sir Laurence Olivier, the freshness of the lines and their pertinence to today's history is one of the marvels of literature. It is also a tribute to British film making, Olivier's co-stars, supporting cast and vivid imagination that so boldly caught and captured the spirit that pervaded the English-French wars culminating in the great battle of Agincourt in 1415.

For those who have forgotten the play and for those who have not yet had the good fortune to read or see "Henry V," here is the plot in brief:

Insulted by France, Henry V (Olivier) embarks from England with his army of 30,000 men and horses in 1500 ships to claim the throne of France. The French king, Charles VI (Harcourt Williams), rejects Henry's claims and the war begins.

At the great battle of Agincourt the Dauphin (Max Adrian) flees and the constable of France (Leo Genn) is vanquished by Henry in single combat. And Agincourt is won.

The French Princess Katherine (Renee Asherson) sees Henry from a distance and falls in love with him. And when Henry comes to the French court he woos her, wins her and the French and English royal houses are united by their marriage.

Henry V owes its greatness to many things. First must be its unusual method of presentation, through the eyes of an Elizabethan theatre audience; secondly, its constancy with the legitimate stage so that it maintains its Shakespearean quality; thirdly, the visionary use of the camera for its outdoor scenes, the tents at night, the flight of the arrows to meet the charging French knights. The ominous, ever-present mood music played by the London Symphony Orchestra.

Certainly it would be difficult to envision two more spectacular scenes than the singing arrows crowding the air towards their targets. Nor would one soon forget France's great warlords trotting their horses before breaking into a wild gallop. Surely these two scenes must go down in film-making history.

"Henry V" ends its two-day run in town tonight. What a pity that it couldn't have been made a "must" for every school student in Greater Victoria.

Shakespeare himself couldn't have wished for a finer presentation of "Henry V."

ARTS CENTRE DISPLAY*Plasket Paintings Put On Exhibition

By SHARON RITCHIE

Oak Bay Junior High School

Winner of an Emily Carr fellowship for Canadian art, Joseph Plasket presented a display of oils and pastels at the Victoria Arts Centre today. It will continue for two weeks.

Mr. Plasket's paintings have been displayed in Vancouver and other national arts centres and are included in many private collections in Europe and Canada.

Nearly all the paintings displayed here were done in Europe during 1949-51.

Mr. Plasket, who studied with the well-known Hans Hoffman, was the director of the Winnipeg arts centre for some years. He taught in Vancouver and this summer will instruct at UBC.

GIFTED COLORISTS

"Mr. Plasket is one of the most gifted colorists in Canada today," said Arts Centre curator Colin Graham.

He is the nephew of the late Dr. J. S. Plasket, former head of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here.

The Mark Kearly and Sara Spencer galleries are being used for the display which includes two paintings of Duncan scenes.

Russian-born David Arc will also open a two-week display today. Mr. Arc, who has exhibited his work in France and Britain, felt Victoria Arts Centre was the best in Canada.

He wanted his first Canadian show to open here.

By MARJ LAWSON
Mount View High School

A letter from CCF candidate Frank Snowsall, proposing a public meeting in connection with education finances, was read and rejected by the Saanich Council Monday night.

Mr. Snowsall felt that a public hearing of each candidate's views regarding the vital subject of school finances, would help to clear the public mind.

However, Councillor S. Eden stated that the public is "sick and tired of hearing long political speeches full of nothing."

The council also pointed out that a hearing so close an election would be "ill-timed."

Flag on Every House Is Object Of Windsor Park Boy Scouts

A flag over every home is the aim of Scouts of the Windsor Park troop to mark the Coronation celebration in Oak Bay.

Chairman of the Windsor Park group, Bill Lewis, said Monday the Scouts have adopted the project both as a community venture and a fund-raising effort.

The boys are currently painting poles, attaching flags and making brackets. Both Union Jacks and Canadian "red dusters" will be used.

Householders will be asked to buy the flags and to hire the Scouts to erect them.

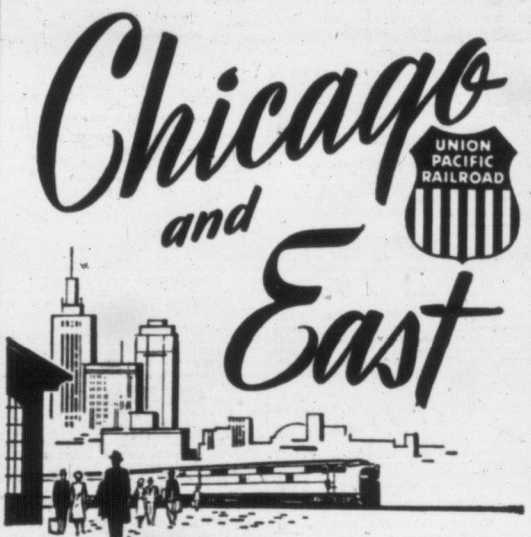

The need for funds is urgent this year because the Community Chest did not reach its objective. Scout funds are low.

Socreds Had Chance, Snowsell Declares

Premier W. A. C. Bennett's theory that the government must have an absolute majority "leads to the road to totalitarianism," Frank Snowsell, CCF candidate for Saanich, told a meeting in Roy Hall, Wilkinson Road, Monday night.

"I believe the Social Credit had a better opportunity to bring down good legislation than ever before," he said. "No opposition would dare oppose legislation for the good of the people, but there was a strong opposition ready to criticize and suggest."

"Failure to introduce constructive legislation lies solely on the shoulders of the premier," he said. "The CCF embarrassed him by supporting certain legislation which he had no intention of implementing."

Premier Bennett was determined to be defeated, not to govern. He was determined not to fulfill his promises."

Less than a dozen attended

Mr. Snowsell's meeting, but he pointed out that the CCF had topped the poll in that district at the last election.

The candidate said the CCF is the only party to allow the ordinary man, to control his own destiny.

"Fundamentally, we now stand for what we stood for in 1933," he said. "We are trying to bring economic democracy to the people."

He pointed out that if CCF had not tried to obstruct the Social Credit government, but had tried to get it to implement its promises, and had put 24 questions on the order paper with this object in view.

BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

One of the hands played by Fred Karpin of Silver Spring, Md., in the recent Life Master Individual Championship interested me both in the bidding and in the play.

In the individual championship you get a new partner every set of four hands, and this time Fred was faced by a partner with whom he had never played before.

Fred's opening bid of one no trump was slightly light, and he fenced around with his rebid of two hearts. When North raised to only three hearts, Karpin was happy to pass the South hand below game.

West opened the king of diamonds, holding the trick. He continued with the queen of diamonds, and East completed his echo by dropping the four of diamonds. South won with the ace of diamonds and tried to develop the clubs in such a way as to keep West from cashing his third diamond trick.

With this idea in mind, declarer led a low club and finessed dummy's ten. East won with the jack of clubs and returned a spade. South winning with the ace, Karpin now led the queen of clubs, covered by the king and ace.

When he next returned the seven of clubs casually from the dummy, East carelessly played low. South discarded his losing diamond and was gratified to see that dummy's club held the trick.

Declarer's next step was to cash the king of spades and ruff a spade in dummy, both opponents following suit. He returned dummy's last diamond and East discarded the queen of spades. Karpin ruffed, led a trump to the ace and then returned a trump towards his queen.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By E. M. JORDAN, MD

Epidemic Hepatitis Produces Jaundice

Mrs. A. M. D. asks whether hepatitis is contagious, what it is, and whether there is a cure. She says there are several cases in the school where her children go.

This question probably refers to what is variously known as infectious hepatitis, epidemic hepatitis, or catarrhal jaundice. In all probability the disease is an old one, but because our troops during the war in certain areas suffered from it particularly, a great deal of new knowledge and a new interest has come about concerning the disease during the past 10 or 12 years.

So far as is known there are probably two viruses responsible for this liver disease. (Hepatitis means inflammation of the liver.) One of them produces what is sometimes known as serum jaundice, a condition in which the symptoms develop two or three months after infection with human serum or plasma containing the offending virus. This is being conquered.

The other, or perhaps true infectious hepatitis, is contagious and is acquired in some uncertain way from someone else who already harbors the responsible virus. In other words, it is catching.

About half the patients stricken with the epidemic form of the disease develop a fever which generally reaches about 103 degrees. The typical yellow color of the skin and eyeballs, known as jaundice, is frequently not noticed until after the patient has been sick for several days.

Actually the amount of jaundice varies a good deal from person to person and in some may be bright yellow and in others may be hardly noticeable.

Convalescence from a typical case of the disease often takes a long time. It is generally considered to take about two months or even longer. In some the acute form seems to be followed by a chronic variety from which recovery is quite

Boys and Girls Attend Weston's Bakeries Free Show at Odeon

Hi-Times Writers Move Into Daily Paper's Key Spots

Hi-Times Day in the Times office saw writers of the weekly Saturday feature pieces in regular reporters' and desk men's jobs today. Their stories and examples of their work appear in all editions of the paper. Many of them hope to follow journalism as a career. They were particularly enthusiastic workers. But all relished the change of scene and the adventure of daily news reporting. Here they pose for Times photographer Bill Halkett at the universal copy desk in the Times editorial rooms. ### Americans See Meeting As Waste of Time

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States shied away today from Prime Minister Winston Churchill's proposal that leading world powers hold a top-level cold war conference.

Diplomatic officials said the western powers would be wasting time and possibly courting trouble by entering the East-West negotiations without first getting real evidence that the Soviet Union wants peace. They said there has been no such evidence so far.

Congressional reaction to the Churchill proposal was mixed. Leading Republicans were unenthusiastic or openly opposed to the idea. But some Democrats said it was "worth trying."

Both the White House and state department withheld formal comment. Officials said the Eisenhower administration had made its position clear previously and there was no reason to restate it.

American officials conceded that there is a difference of opinion between the two governments, but they said it is not a "great split."

U.S. Senator Calls For Cold War Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator J. William Fulbright, Dem.-Ark., called today for U.S. leadership "with some good horse sense" to arrange cold war peace talks with the Russians.

Fulbright, a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he sees merit in the suggestion of Prime Minister Churchill that "highest level" leaders of the big powers should undertake to talk things out.

Europeans Praise British Leader's Speech; Pope in Appeal

LONDON (UP)—Winston Churchill won the support today of the British Labor Party, his chief opposition, in his call for a conference of world leaders on East-West issues.

But Clement R. Attlee, the labor party's leader, warned that President Eisenhower should come to any such meeting armed with full authority so he would not be repudiated later by Congress.

Opening the second day of a two-day full-dress House of Commons debate on foreign affairs, Attlee called for closer personal relations between British and Soviet leaders to help allay Soviet suspicions of the west.

Then Attlee launched into a blistering criticism of the American system of government.

A body of opinion in both the United States and Great Britain blames Soviet intrigue for all the world's troubles, Attlee said.

"I hope that no one will suggest that I am in any way anti-American," Attlee continued. "Nor do I wish to attack the American constitution. But I really want to show facts which do not always seem to be apprehended."

"President Eisenhower makes a great speech. It is the President's speech. He speaks for the administration, but in America the power is divided between the administration and Congress."

"Therefore the government in America is not really master in its own house. He said also that after the present Korean armistice negotiations are concluded, 'further settlement should not be left exclusively in American hands.'"

He said some elements in the United States do not want a settlement in Korea, some want an all-out war with Communist China.

He said also that after the present Korean armistice negotiations are concluded, "further settlement should not be left exclusively in American hands."

BRITONS READY FOR LAST DASH ON MT. EVEREST

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP)—The British Mount Everest expedition was reported today to have established its fifth camp at the 23,000-foot level on the world's highest and last unconquered mountain. A report reaching here from the expedition's main camp said it was expected the final try to reach the summit of the 29,002-foot Himalayan peak would be made within 10 days.

Clark Plans New Offer in Peace Talks

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—Gen. Mark W. Clark disclosed today he "shortly" will give the Communists a Washington-approved counter-proposal which he thinks might lead to an armistice in Korea.

The United Nations Far East supreme commander made his dramatic statement at Seoul on his way from Tokyo to the Allied truce camp at Munsan near here.

Clark told newsmen they could "rest assured" that "we have consulted with Washington on a matter of this importance."

The Communists had insisted their eight-point plan to break the truce deadlock on disposition of prisoners was acceptable without amendment.

Clark's announcement came as Red negotiators here argued that final disposition of anti-Red prisoners fighting reparations has nothing to do with the armistice itself.

Naguib Says British Must Leave Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Premier Mohammed Naguib said today Egypt was determined to force the British out of the country.

Commenting on British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's foreign policy speech in the House of Commons Monday, Naguib said British "imperialism and aggression remain unchanged."

"I proclaim that Egypt considers the presence of any foreign troops in its territory under any name whatsoever is a continuation of the British aggression against Egypt which began in 1882 under the pretext of defense of the crown," Naguib said.

"We are at present determined to rid our country completely of British occupation and aggression."

Rupert Plane Crash Kills 2

High-Speed Emergency Work by Fishermen Averts Major Disaster

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (BUP)—High-speed emergency work by west coast fishboats today was credited with averting a major disaster in the crash Monday of a Canso amphibian aircraft in this northern port.

Two lives were lost when the Canadian Pacific Airlines plane smashed into the choppy waters of the harbor, but the fishboats rescued the other 18 persons aboard the Canso, including Pilot W. T. Jennings and First Officer Everett Abby who had to be hospitalized.

Killed in the crash were Stewardess Clara C. Langen, 25, of Humboldt, Sask., and RCMP Constable Steven Kasper, of Allan, Sask.

Twin teams of investigators flew here today to determine the cause of the Canadian Pacific Airlines accident, while officials heaped praise on the skippers and crewmen of the fishboats which participated in rescue operations.

The boats picked up the 18 survivors as they floated in the chilly water or huddled on the half-submerged wings of the Canso, after it crashed while attempting to land.

REPORTED RECOVERING J. L. Wood of Vancouver, B.C., a passenger aboard the plane, and one of those hospitalized following the mishap, was rescued from the stricken craft's tail-section by crewmen of the fishing vessel Dollina II, one of the first boats on the scene.

Wood, Jennings and Abby all were reported recovering from their injuries today.

More than a dozen fishboats joined in the rescue work. They made an 800-yard dash across the harbor to the side of the downed plane within five minutes, while hundreds of persons watched the operation from the harbor-edge.

The bodies of the two victims were washed ashore hours after the crash.

A CPA investigating team headed by Ron Keith flew in from Vancouver and joined Transport Department investigators. Both teams believed strong head winds capsize the plane as it hit the water for a routine landing.

The Canso appeared to submerge first as it sliced through the water. One report said it struck a log before overturning. It was later refloated and towed to a berth at Seal Cove.

There were 17 passengers and a crew of three aboard the airliner when it left Sandspit in the Queen Charlotte Islands on the 45-minute flight to Prince Rupert.

It was the first fatal air crash in British Columbia since January when 22 men were killed in the crashes of two RCAF aircraft and a civilian plane on three successive days.

Toll May Reach 150; $10 Million Damage

(From AP and UP Dispatches)

WACO, Tex.—The United States Weather Bureau warned today of the possibility of more Texas tornadoes in the wake of two man-killing twisters Monday which left at least 54—and possibly as many as 150—dead.

Rescue crews guided by muffled taps and groans of the injured worked feverishly today to free more victims from the debris left by a death-dealing tornado, one of the worst ever to hit Texas.

At least 42 were known dead from the twister which hit here, while eight died in a similar storm which struck San Angelo, Tex.—a total of 50. Some 250 persons were injured here and 79 at San Angelo, 190 miles west of Waco.

Damage here was estimated at $10,000,000. Waco's civil defense director, Sam Meredith, predicted the death toll in this central Texas city might reach 100.

"They have just begun to dig," he said. Hundreds of volunteers swarmed over the ruins of a six-story furniture store, a restaurant and a pool hall here that were demolished by Monday's deadly twister.

It had been feared that many died in the Joy Theatre, which collapsed. But manager E. C. Houck said the roof buckled before it collapsed, holding together long enough for all inside to escape.

There was no way to determine how many were dead and injured in the ruins of the six-story R. T. Dennis furniture store, or Chris' restaurant, or in Torrance's Recreation Club, a pool hall. At least 25 men and boys were trapped in the pool hall. A girl named Lillie Watkins, who was caught between a mattress and a divan in the furniture store, with one arm pinned down by debris, reported she saw three bodies around her.

Airmen from Connally Air Force Base packed a hose down a hole 20 feet long but only 10 inches in diameter and fed the girl oxygen to keep up her strength, as rescue workers moved slowly toward her.

Muffled knocks inside the wreckage of the furniture store directed rescue workers toward the injured.

To keep the wreckage from settling and burying the injured, they pulled out one brick at a time and scooped out mortar and fragments of bricks with shovels.

At San Angelo the Red Cross reported 190 homes destroyed and 164 damaged. The twister there also damaged Lake View School, where 500 to 600 children were at classes when the storm hit.

Leo Slides, radio dispatcher for the state department of public safety at San Angelo, said more bodies were expected to be found in the wreckage and that some of the injured were in critical condition.

Guards were stationed every 100 yards throughout the stricken area, he reported, because there had been some looting. A torrential rain and a heavy hail storm overflowed the streets of San Angelo after the tornado.

Guests were routed out of the 11-story Roosevelt Hotel for fear the gas would collect in the building and explode. Meredith said the whole business area of Waco—56 square blocks—had been closed off.

Mayor Ralph Wolf of Waco "conservatively" estimated damage at $10,000,000. Two hundred automobiles, either destroyed or badly damaged, were counted in a 36-block area. Tons of bricks fell on one and squashed the top to within three feet of the ground.

Two hundred units of blood plasma were flown in from Scott Air force base, Ill., and from Brooke army hospital, at San Antonio, Tex. Gov. Allan Shivers offered "all resources of the state government" to the stricken cities.

Fourth Army headquarters sent cots and blankets and the Red Cross sent 500 more cots and 1,000 more blankets. Two field kitchens were set up to feed rescue workers and the homeless.

North and Central Texas had been warned against tornadoes by weather bureaus. But apparently few persons in either city expected them. The relation Lebedoff Tries To Take Over Douk Leadership VANCOUVER (CP)—John Lebedoff, who recently served a prison term for arson, made an unsuccessful bid Monday night to take over the leadership of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

Lebedoff's try came at a meeting of young Doukhobors at the village of Krestova, deep in the Doukhobor country, 250 miles east of here. He and a group of followers crashed the meeting and urged the young folk to auction lands in preparation for a move to another country.

He was told that this request should first be placed before the elders of the community, since the young people own nothing.

THE POLITICAL POT

The political spotlight will focus on Salmon Arm today and tomorrow as Premier Bennett and Liberal Leader Arthur Laing are scheduled to appear in the interior city.

Main issue under debate will be the attack on B.C.'s education system made in the Legislature by J. A. Reid, Salmon Arm Socialist MLA.

Mr. Laing was speaking there this afternoon, and was expected to launch a stinging attack on Mr. Reid. The premier speaks there Wednesday night and undoubtedly will answer Mr. Laing.

Premier Bennett will be faced with a barrage of questions from the local teachers' association. They will ask him if he believes if any school books used in B.C. are immoral or Communist inspired.

The premier is expected to answer negatively, and stress that Mr. Reid was expressing his own views in the House—his democratic right.

Premier Bennett makes his only speech in Victoria on May 21 at 8 p.m.

And for the occasion local Societies will take over the Royal Theatre.

Saanich CCF candidate Frank Snowsall, surveying a gathering of less than a dozen people in Roy Hall, Wilkinson Road, remarked:

"One of the problems and dangers of democracy is that people fail to get out and see their candidates."

Mrs. Florence Leary, Liberal candidate in Kaslo-Slocan, is the widow of former public works minister C. S. Leary.

MEETINGS TONIGHT 8 p.m.—Health and Welfare Minister Eric Martin at lower ballroom, Crystal Garden.

8 p.m.—Esquimalt CCF candidate Frank Mitchell with Saanich CCF candidate Frank Snowsall at Shawnigan Lake.

No Special House Session in Fall

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today the government has no intention of calling a special fall session of Parliament this year.

But he suggested the regular 1954 session might start before the end of the year, as was the case with the current session.

The government's intentions came out when Justice Minister Garson — apparently inadvertently — referred to tabling some documents in the Commons next fall.

Plan May End Spokane Bus Strike

SPOKANE (AP) — A tentative agreement for ending Spokane's 22-day-old bus strike was reached today in a surprise meeting called after negotiations appeared stalled.

The 190 bus drivers and shopmen were to vote on it tonight, D. S. Peck, manager of Spokane City Lines, said he thinks the buses will be back Thursday.

Neither side would give terms of the agreement. The men struck April 20 in support of demands for a 16-cent hourly increase.

Hollywood Park May Abandon Meet

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UP)—The Hollywood Turf Club today canceled all its remaining race programs from tomorrow through Friday and said that if Saturday's program does not fill the boycotted Hollywood Park race track it will be "compelled to close down."

The announcement was made in a notice to horsemen following a track staff meeting to discuss the boycott called by the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association in a dispute over purses.

Churchill PlanAttlee Backs PM in Call for Conference of World Leaders

LONDON (UP)—Winston Churchill won the support today of the British Labor Party, his chief opposition, in his call for a conference of world leaders on East-West issues.

But Clement R. Attlee, the labor party's leader, warned that President Eisenhower should come to any such meeting armed with full authority so he would not be repudiated later by Congress.

Opening the second day of a two-day full-dress House of Commons debate on foreign affairs, Attlee called for closer personal relations between British and Soviet leaders to help allay Soviet suspicions of the West.

Then Attlee launched into a blistering criticism of the American system of government.

A body of opinion in both the United States and Great Britain blames Soviet intrigue for all the world's troubles, Attlee said.

"I hope that no one will suggest that I am in any way anti-American," Attlee continued.

He said also that after the present Korean armistice negotiations are concluded, "further settlement should not be left exclusively in American hands."

European diplomats said today Churchill seized the initiative from both Moscow and Washington in his call for an early meeting of world leaders on the issues that divide west and east.

French leaders praised the speech.

Government circles in West Germany and the Socialist opposition welcomed Churchill's declaration in Commons Monday that the Bonn government should not be sacrificed to obtain a settlement with Russia.

"It is our hope that Churchill's speech will have a positive echo through the world," Socialist chief Fritz Heine said in Bonn.

The "Irish Independent," Eire's biggest morning newspaper in circulation, said editorially that Churchill had "seized the initiative" from the United States.

A Japanese foreign office spokesman said in Tokyo his country considered the speech a "constructive effort" toward the achievement of world peace.

VATICAN CITY (CP)—The Pope today called on the world powers to initiate "a frank and loyal discussion" as a step toward world peace.

Such talks, he contended, would be the "first and indispensable condition of peace."

Congressional reaction to the Churchill proposal was mixed. Leading Republicans were unenthusiastic or openly opposed to the idea.

Both the White House and state department withheld formal comment. Officials said the Eisenhower administration had made its position clear previously and there was no reason to restate it.

American officials conceded that there is a difference of opinion between the two governments, but they said it is not a "great split."

Souvenirs

Barbara Little, eight, of Ottawa, holds the Coronation commemorative medallions which will be issued to school children across Canada. About 3,000,000 are being struck at the mint in Ottawa. Made of bronze, they are slightly smaller than Canada's dollar coins. Front of the medallion bears shoulder-length portrait of Queen Elizabeth. The reverse side shows Her Majesty's royal cypher, "E II R" topped by St. Edward's crown, with the word Canada below.

Americans See
Meeting As Waste of Time

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States shied away today from Prime Minister Winston Churchill's proposal that leading world powers hold a top-level cold war conference.

Diplomatic officials said the western powers would be wasting time and possibly courting trouble by entering the East-West negotiations without first getting real evidence that the Soviet Union wants peace. They said there has been no such evidence so far.

Congressional reaction to the Churchill proposal was mixed. Leading Republicans were unenthusiastic or openly opposed to the idea.

Both the White House and state department withheld formal comment. Officials said the Eisenhower administration had made its position clear previously and there was no reason to restate it.

Plane
Crash
Kills 2Fishermen Avert
Major Disaster

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (BUP) — High-speed emergency work by west coast fishboats today was credited with averting a major disaster in the crash Monday of a Canso amphibian aircraft in this northern port.

Two lives were lost when the Canadian Pacific Airlines plane smashed into the choppy waters of the harbor, but the fishboats rescued the other 18 persons aboard the Canso, including Pilot W. T. Jennings and First Officer Everett Abby who had to be hospitalized.

Killed in the crash were Stewardess Clara C. Langen, 25, of Humboldt, Sask., and RCMP Constable Steven Kasper, of Allan, Sask.

Twin teams of investigators flew here today to determine the cause of the Canadian Pacific Airlines accident, while officials heaped praise on the skippers and crewmen of the fishboats which participated in rescue operations.

The boats picked up the 18 survivors as they floated in the chilly water or huddled on the half-submerged wings of the Canso, after it crashed while attempting to land.

REPORTED RECOVERING
J. L. Wood of Vancouver, B.C., a passenger aboard the plane, and one of those hospitalized following the mishap, was rescued from the stricken craft's tail-section by crewmen of the fishing vessel Dollina II, one of the first boats on the scene.

Wood, Jennings and Abby all were reported recovering from their injuries today.

700 Men on 3 Main
Lines May Be Idle

Seven hundred B.C. seamen on three major B.C. coast steamship lines have voted "overwhelmingly" for strike action in a dispute over hours and wages.

All British Columbia Coast Service steamships of the CPR, linking Vancouver Island with B.C. and U.S. mainland points, would be affected if a strike is called.

Also involved in the dispute are Canadian National Steamships and Union steamships.

Noel Cunningham, port agent for the AFL Seafarers' Union in Vancouver, said a membership meeting will be called Monday, when a strike deadline will be set.

He did not reveal the actual ballot count, but said there was an overwhelming majority for strike action.

Services operating out of Vancouver Island effected would be the Nanaimo-Vancouver link; Victoria-Vancouver; Victoria-Seattle; and Vancouver-Victoria-West Coast.

The union originally asked for a $50 increase for deck and engine room crews with the three companies. A conciliation board suggested a $30 increase.

Vancouver Island was tied up by a seamen's strike in the fall of 1950.

WACO, Tex.—The United States Weather Bureau warned today of the possibility of more Texas tornadoes in the wake of two man-killing twisters Monday which left at least 54—and possibly as many as 150—dead.

Rescue crews guided by muffled taps and groans of the injured worked feverishly today to free more victims from the debris left by a death-dealing tornado, one of the worst ever to hit Texas.

At least 42 were known dead from the twister which hit here, while eight died in a similar storm which struck San Angelo, Tex.—a total of 50. Some 250 persons were injured here and 79 at San Angelo, 190 miles west of Waco.

Damage here was estimated at $10,000,000.

Waco's civil defense director, Sam Meredith, predicted the death toll in this central Texas city might reach 100.

"They have just begun to dig," he said
